Trains Delay Alouette

WASHINGTON (CP) — Another attempt to shoot the Canadian satellite Alouette into space has been postponed until early Saturday morning, a U.S. Space agency official said Thursday.

The satellite, planned to scan the top layer of the atmosphere, is sitting atop a two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket at the Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

The initial attempt to launch the satellite failed early Thursday because of a series of minor but time-consuming troubles.

The first was a malfunction, described as a pressurization leak in ground equipment linked to the rocket's second stage. The passing trains, which upset the delicate instruments, delayed the blastoff still further.

Finally at 1:20 a.m., only two minutes and 19 seconds from the end of the countdown, the shot was called off because the space agency wasn't certain it could destroy the rocket if it went off course.

On Flight Home

City Pilot Missing

A 28-year-old Victoria pilot has been reported missing on a flight between Castlegar and Victoria.

The missing pilot is Ernest Johnston of Cresswell Road, near Sidney.

He was last heard from when he reported his position over Princeton and radioed for weather information. The Cessna 172 he was flying carried enough fuel for 4½ hours.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnston told the Colonist last night her husband is "a very determined man."

"My husband is an Irishman. He'll walk out of anything he gets into," she said. "I have no doubt that I'll see him again in three or four days."

The Johnston's have been married for two years and have a six-month-old daughter, Sylvia.

Mrs. Johnston said her Edmonton-born husband had been in the Royal Canadian Air Force for eight years.

He left the air force two years ago to go into private flying. In his present job he is employed as a charter pilot and instructor by Victoria Flying Services at Patricia Bay Airport.

Air-Sea Rescue officials said yesterday poor weather curtailed an air search for the light plane.

"We are operating on the theory that Mr. Johnston may have planned to fly south to Spokane and then west," an official said. "When the weather clears our aerial search will include that area and the area northeast of Princeton."

Throne Speech Points

Growth Major Target

Government to encourage export to present of potential surplus power.

Establishment of a national economic development board to report state of economy and recommend projects.

Expansion of export trade promotion program.

Enlargement of industrial development bank.

Government objective of "balanced budget."

Institution of program to provide feed grain storage facilities in Eastern Canada and British Columbia.

More funds for farm credit corporation.

Convening this fall of a national conference on agricultural training.

Changes in freight rate legislation designed to remove need for across-the-board rate increases.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government put an "economic growth" label on its legislative program unveiled Thursday at the opening of the new Parliament.

One major step forecast: Creation of a national economic development board that would keep its finger on the country's economic pulse and suggest new policies for expansion.

But the government's legislative plans, outlined in the speech from the throne read by Governor-General Vanier, contained little else of major policy decisions apart from a move that might lead to adoption of a new Canadian flag and national anthem.

The throne speech set as a goal the creation of more than 1,000,000 new jobs in Canada in the next five years, and promised "further solutions to long-term problems" in the economy. But it made clear that Parliament will have to wait for a new budget speech to learn what those solutions are.

Washington Order

Negro Student Held Back To Save Peace

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — James Meredith, headed for his fourth attempt to enroll at the all-white University of Mississippi, backed off at the last minute Thursday under direct order of the U.S. attorney-general.

With Meredith already en route in an auto caravan with federal marshals, the order came from Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who saw "major violence and bloodshed for the citizens of Mississippi" if the 28-year-old Negro went all the way.

Waiting firmly at this north Mississippi college town were a helmeted and club-carrying army of Mississippi peace officers — showing not the slightest evidence of backing down, force or not.

'Fight Back'

Former Maj. Gen. E. A. Walker, who commanded federal troops in forcible Little Rock, Ark., integration in 1957, called for massive resistance if soldiers are sent to enforce federal court orders to integrate University of Mississippi.

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The $400,000,000 Columbia River development scheme will go ahead before the end of this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of the federal throne speech which disclosed that final victory in the great Columbia controversy of the past five years goes to British Columbia.

TOUGHEST BATTLE

The premier was restrained in his acceptance of word he had won what many believe was the toughest battle of his stormy political career.

"This isn't a question of winning arguments," he told reporters, "there is no time for partisan politics in Canada today."

SIGN OF ELATION

But toward the end of an hour-long press conference he could hardly conceal his elation and his optimism any longer. "Twenty-five years after the development of the Peace and the Columbia British Columbia industrially will be greater."

Arizona Desert

Flood May Spur Mass Exodus

PHOENIX (UPI) — Residents of two central Arizona towns were warned last night to evacuate their communities as flood waters rushed through the deserts. Sheriff's officers said Stanfield and Maricopa must be evacuated immediately.

"It's a hot one," a sheriff's officer said. "It really looks bad."

Eight school buses were drafted for evacuation duties. They were to stand by at the Stanfield school.

The desert floods were set off by rains nearly unprecedented in semi-arid central Arizona. The town of Sells, headquarters for the Papago Indian reservation, reported 3.5 inches of rain compared with a record 2.45 inches set in August of 1912.

Army helicopters from Fort Huachuca were dropping food and water to hundreds of Indians left stranded and homeless by the rampaging floods.

Belligerent Bobbers Carry Old Grudge

HULL, England (Reuters) — Fishworkers here Thursday refused to unload a catch of fish from a West German trawler because of a grudge which began in the First World War.

And Thursday night the trawler, the 126-ton Heinrich Kern, was heading for home with 20,000 pounds of cod, caught off her huge catch and was offered in Hull.

The grudge began when local fishworkers turned her down in 1914-18 war.

ships were sunk and shot up by German submarines and planes in the 1914-18 war.

Hull's fish "bobbers" — the men who unload fish — have refused to touch German trawlers ever since.

The Heinrich Kern went first to Glimby. She was too big to get into Glimby's fish dock with her huge catch and was offered in Hull.

The bobbers turned her down in 1914-18 war.

Death Toll May Reach 600 in Spain

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Gen. Agustin Muñoz Grandes, vice-president in the Franco government, told reporters Thursday after a tour of the triangular flood area north of Barcelona that he expects the final death toll from Tuesday's disaster to reach 600.

"They are still bringing in bodies from every part of the triangle," Muñoz-Grandes said. As he spoke, the latest official casualty list showed 387 dead, 445 missing and 330 in hospitals with injuries.

'Sons' Set To March Again?

PRINCETON (UPI) — Sons of Freedom demonstrators, on campus here for 11 days, indicated late Thursday the original purpose of their trip from the Bundeswehr will stand — they will move into Agania.

Observers here told such a movement was imminent, despite the fact the Free-Student camp of about 1,000 was quiet.

Sammy Puts Them on the Run

By MIKE GAUSBY

A friendly ever named Sammy has been turning a Victoria neighborhood upside down for the past three weeks.

The little brown bird dropped into a Daisy Avenue neighborhood about three weeks ago, and children in the area were so delighted with his fearless friendliness that they christened him Sammy.

Now Sammy swoops and plays with the children and appears to have no fear of anyone. He picks up their feet while they're riding their bicycles and hops around, keeping them company while they play.

But Sammy's popularity is strictly confined to the children — parents have a different point of view.

Fathers in the area don't like the way he's being taken.

In the grass which song their lawn mowers. Mothers don't like the way he picks up their feet while they're riding their bicycles and hops around, keeping them company while they play.

When Mrs. John Gale, of 700 Daisy, got into her car last week, there was Sammy sitting on the hood. "I just ignored him," she said. "I figured he'd fly away when I started the car. After I had gone half a block he was still sitting there, looking in the window at me. I finally had to stop the car and get out and chase him away."

Mrs. Gale has had more trouble with Sammy. "One day I put the baby in her carriage with a teething dummy in her mouth. The next thing I saw was that crow with the dummy in its beak."

The other day when I was changing the baby, I went on Mrs. Gale. "Sammy flew right into the house and stole the baby's shirt. I had to chase him to get it back. I'm sure he's someone's pet," she said "and I wish they'd come and claim him. That bird has got to go."

ROBERT THOMPSON
... early next week

Socred Amendment May Trip Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — All three opposition party leaders Thursday heavily criticized government policy as outlined in the speech from the throne opening Parliament.

But whether this criticism would be translated into defeat of the minority Progressive Conservative government remained to be seen.

Opposition Leader Pearson reiterated that he will bring in a non-confidence motion Monday.

But the 106 Liberals would need the voting support of the 20 Social Credit and 18 New Democratic Party members to overthrow the 116-member government.

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said he will propose a "strong" amendment-in effect, a non-confidence motion — early next week. If the Liberals and NDP supported it, the government would be turned out.

"If this is all the Progressive Conservatives have got to offer, the House certainly is not going to go too long," Mr. Thompson said.

NDP leader T. C. Douglas said his party would not take a stand on the Liberal non-confidence motion "until we hear further about the proposed policies of the government." Presumably this would mean the NDP wanted to wait to hear Prime Minister Diefenbaker Monday or Tuesday.

VOTED THURSDAY

If Social Credit or the NDP introduced a non-confidence motion, it would be voted on Tuesday. Mr. Pearson's motion would be voted on Thursday.

Mr. Pearson described the throne speech as a "robust" of last April's budget and the Conservative election platform.

ECONOMIC MORASS

Mr. Thompson said the throne speech "displays a persistence in the economic delusions that led the country into economic morass in which we have floundered for the last five years."

Columbia Plan

than Ontario and Quebec together," he said.

FREE TO SELL

What yesterday's throne speech disclosed for the first time was that B.C. will be free to sell its Columbia downstream entitlement in the U.S. that it will be free to export surplus power from an source, and that the long-dormant Columbia treaty will be put before the new session of Parliament for ratification.

NAME EXPORT

Premier Bennett was adamant the federal government's change of policy on the Columbia did not stem from the June 19 federal election but from a decision last March that Ottawa would treat power export the same as the export of such other forms of energy as gas and petroleum.

WAS UNENTAILABLE

He said once Ottawa had made this decision its argument against B.C.'s proposed sale of downstream power entitlement became untenable.

He denied vehemently he had traded Prime Minister Diefenbaker Social Credit support in the House of Commons for an early bid for ratification of the Columbia treaty.

NOTE EXCHANGE

Next step to get the three-dam project going will be an exchange of notes with the United States covering the terms of downstream benefit sale.

Observers yesterday detected in the premier's remarks about sale of the benefit power a departure from his previous statements he would sell only for five mills per k.w.h. He talked about "five mills or its equivalent."

FIRM PRICE

He indicated a firm price below five mills would be justified if, for instance, a low in terest rate on the U.S.-raised capital cost made up the difference.

When a reporter asked him if this indicated the U.S. government might be the lending agency he replied "you can't be frank about some things."

NO TROUBLE SEEN

He anticipated no trouble in financing the $400,000,000 Columbia project on the strength of a contract with the U.S. for sale of the downstream entitlement.

Mr. Bennett said the order of development of British Columbia's vast hydro development program has not changed.

The Portage Mountain dam on the Peace River will come first and will supply power in 1968. Next major source will come from Mica Creek, followed by second stage development on the Peace and second stage development on the Columbia.

British Columbia will need about $400,000,000 for the first stage of the Peace at a rate of about $40,000,000 a year for 10 years.

BEST ADVANTAGE

Asked where Peace financing would come from the premier replied "wherever the money can be secured to best advantage... but I can tell you one thing, it won't be in peace."

Previously he had said the Columbia be financed in the U.S. and the Peace in Canada.

EXPORT TO U.S.

Surplus Peace River power will be exported to the U.S., the premier said, and Mica Creek power will be brought into Vancouver. He refers to Mica power as "the cheapest in the world" because its generating facilities would be paid for by sale of the Columbia downstream entitlement.

First contract on the Columbia project, for clearing at the site of the Duncan dam, will be let within two days of the ratification of the Columbia treaty, the premier promised.

'B.C. Has Lost'

Premier Bennett may have won but B.C. has lost, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said yesterday.

He termed the throne speech concession to B.C.'s Columbia River demands "a further repudiation of Conservative policy as it was expressed before the last federal election."

BOILER BALANCE

Its advocacy of long-term export of surplus power as a measure to bolster the lagging balance of trade is "a reflection of the desperate economic situation they have brought to Canada."

"This situation comes about because we have a federal and provincial government so bankrupt of economic ideas that they have mortgaged the future of Canada to cover their deficiencies of today," Mr. Strachan continued.

HEAVY DEBTS

He said the premier is about to "plunge B.C. into billions of dollars worth of long-term debt commitments that will have to be repaid by future generations."

"It will be many years before it is evident just how much damage has been done to British Columbia by the actions of Ottawa and Victoria, but by that time it will be too late."

"Mr. Diefenbaker now joins Mr. Bennett as a man of little vision who is prepared to sell Canada short."

Mr. Strachan said the new power export policy will send more and more young Canadians to the U.S. to fill jobs created by the availability of Canadian power.

Herridge vs. Caouette

Warfare Starts

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament opened Thursday on its traditional notes of ceremonial pageantry. But a brief political flareup occurred as an omen of things to come.

Key events were the presentation of the speech from the throne in the colorful Senate Chamber and the Commons' election of its Speaker for the 25th Parliament.

ENDORSED BY ALL

Marcel Lambert, 43-year-old Conservative MP from Edmonton West, received the warm endorsement of all four parties after Prime Minister Diefenbaker proposed him for the speakership.

It was while the House was extolling the qualities of Mr. Lambert and his predecessor, the Hon. Roland Michener, that the first spark of political warfare came.

MENTIONS HITLER

H. W. Herridge, House leader of the New Democratic Party, said one of the duties of a speaker is to protect the foundations of parliamentary democracy which had been threatened on numerous occasions. "The last time by these exponents of despotic rule, Hitler and Mussolini."

He glanced sharply across the aisle at Real Caouette, deputy leader of the Social Credit party, who was quoted several weeks ago as admiring the policies of the two late dictators.

CAOINET'S TURN

Lord laughter broke out in the chamber.

A few minutes later it was Mr. Caouette's turn to applaud the choice of Mr. Lambert. He said it was the task of the Speaker to protect the nation from subversive elements "such as state socialism and communism."

Speech Pleases Bennett

Premier Bennett said yesterday that what he had seen of the contents of the federal throne speech he liked.

"I commend the national government," he told reporters.

When one newsmen asked if he thought the steps contemplated for bolstering the economy had come too late, the premier shook his head and replied "I don't like the words 'too little and too late.' 'I like to say it will never be as early again.'"

BALANCED BUDGET

He said he supports the federal government in its intention to produce a balanced budget.

Asked if he thought the majority government would survive the early days of the present session, he answered, "Any person or any party who upsets the apple-cart at this time is going to lose."

"This is no time for an election."

He said he was not repeating Social Credit policy to support the Diefenbaker government. "I said it long before it was Social Credit policy, and I have never been one to follow the party line too closely."

He predicted there would be no federal election until next year.

Target for Ottawa

longest in recent years—consisted of unfinished business left over when the last Parliament was dissolved for the June 18 election and which will be reintroduced at this session.

The government's policy declaration got a sour reception from leaders of the three opposition parties.

The throne speech made it clear that this Parliament—as long as it lasts—will be largely concerned with economic questions.

The list of planned government measures forecast a major change in methods of setting railway freight rates, added emphasis on power exports to the United States, and—with little elaboration—"positive, constructive measures" to help reduce the large international balance-of-payments deficit.

TRIGGERED CRISIS

It was this deficit, combined with a reversal last spring of the traditional capital inflows, that triggered last June's foreign exchange crisis.

There was only one guarded reference in the throne speech to an ending of the so-called "austerity" measures introduced June 24. The government promised removal as soon as possible of the import surcharges levied then on more than half of Canada's imports. One throne speech surprise was the announcement that a

Bundlebranch Block Defect Common Heartbeat Delay

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is meant by a conduction defect of the heart? Is it serious? Could this condition, various veins and hemorrhoids have anything to do with each other?—N.J.T.

In your last question, no. Conduction defects means some defects in the way the body conducts to the heart the impulses which tell the heart when to contract or beat.

There are two main types. The commonest is called a bundle branch block, which means some delay in the transmission of the impulse from the upper part of the heart down to the lower chambers, or ventricles of the heart. The signal, in other words, is some what slowed down before reaching its final destination.

TWO CAUSES

Generally, this doesn't require treatment. There are no symptoms you can detect. This kind of conduction defect isn't usually discovered until you have an electrocardiogram.

Since high blood pressure or coronary heart disease are two possible causes of the bundle branch block, it's obviously wise to examine the patient for these possibilities. If no such troubles exist, as a rule the delayed signal isn't anything to fret about.

MORE SERIOUS

The other main variety of conduction defect is more serious. Instead of the heart beat impulse being delayed in transit, there is a slowing up at the point where the impulse starts.

This is an actual slowing up instead of a delay-in-transit. The impulse doesn't originate as often as it should. The heart doesn't get enough signals to beat. Without these signals, it doesn't beat.

Slow heart beat can produce giddiness, faintness, even momentary unconsciousness. This sort of defect certainly requires treatment.

TO SPEED UP

Various drugs are used, such as ephedrine, atropine, benzedrine and the steroids (cortisone, etc.) to speed up the heart rate.

Causes of the second type? They vary considerably, but are usually incited by some serious infection which can range through such things as diphtheria, rheumatic fever, syphilis and others, which can affect the heart muscle.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is the treatment for bundle branch block?

Depending on the case, doctors use various ones, including injection of pain relievers; heat; injection of cortisone and similar hormones; X-ray therapy; surgical removal of calcium deposits; withdrawal of excess fluid inside a bursa or "joint sac."

Astronaut to Record Weather on Films

CAPE CANAVERAL, (UPI)—along a hand-held 35-millimeter camera to record the most spectacular view a man has ever had of the world's ever-changing weather.

The astronaut is scheduled to ride an Atlas rocket into space next Wednesday. He will carry a second-generation satellite system which will carry television cameras into polar orbits to take pictures of weather over every square inch of earth's surface.

Schirra is scheduled to spend 20 minutes taking pictures of clouds as he soars across the North American continent in his sixth hour of flight through space.

Gentle Samson Dies

ROCHFORD, England — A heart attack finally felled Alexander Zass, 75, who killed himself as "Samson, strong man on earth."

A circus career came naturally for the Russian-born Cosack officer. In the 1914-17 Charist army he had once carried his injured horse back to camp after a battle.

In the sawdust ring, Samson lifted a platform carrying 20 people or supported a grand piano and its player with a wire between his teeth. He lifted cars, drove a six-inch nail with his bare fist caught a woman shot from a cannon.

"He was the gentlest of men," said Mrs. Sidney Tibberty, his former partner in the piano act. One day, the wire broke and her spine was fractured. "Samson tried to make it up to me by providing a home for me all my life."

HOLLYWOOD — Actor-producer Dick Powell, 57, disclosed he is under treatment for cancer but said he is highly optimistic and cheerful.

NEW YORK — Onetime British Fascist leader Sir Oswald Mosley cut short his U.S. visit by two days and flew home to London. He would not say if heckling he received at Buffalo Wednesday led to his decision.

VANCOUVER — Chief Constable Ralph Booth criticized city police for careless and slipshod driving. He said he found police drivers guilty of driving faster than the legal speed limit, sliding past stop signs and running amber traffic lights.

SEATTLE — Larson Peter Albin, four months, was injured fatally when his father tripped over the family cat and fell while carrying him. The child's head apparently struck a fireplace brick.

VIENNA — Reports said Hungary's government has

FOURTH ORBIT

At that point, he will be in the fourth of his planned six orbits. His Sigma-7 space capsule will be more than 100 miles above earth, giving Schirra an area of hundreds of thousands of square miles at which to aim his camera.

He will use black-and-white 16-mm film. The important part, however, will be five filters, each of which will "strain out" certain types of light rays. The results will help in selection of filters to be used on board the Nimbus satellite, it was reported.

NEXT SPRING

The first 650-pound Nimbus satellite is scheduled to be launched sometime next spring from the U.S. West Coast. They will gradually replace the Tiros satellites in a complex system which now uses photographs from space in the preparation of weather forecasts for America.

Informed sources said scientists want Schirra to use his own judgment about what to photograph in the way of weather, but pictures with land and water backgrounds are desired.

Forests Crackle

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Lightning bolts ignited nearly 200 spot fires in Sierra forests Wednesday. More fires were expected as the electrical storm continued in the high country.

Less Terror In Hungary

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Sir Leslie Munroe of New Zealand, the UN special representative on Hungary, said Thursday that "political terrorization" in that Communist country has been somewhat reduced.

But in criticism of the continued presence of Soviet troops, he added that no change has taken place in the basic situation since the 1956 revolt.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Earl of Home, British foreign secretary, urged the United Nations General Assembly Thursday to put pressure on the Soviet Union to halt tensions on the Berlin wall.

Refugee Downed By Shot

BERLIN (Reuters) — An East Berlin refugee was shot and wounded by East German guards on the border between East Berlin and the French sector early Wednesday.

U.S. All Set For Threats

COPENHAGEN (AP)—McGeorge Bundy, President Kennedy's adviser on national security, said Thursday the West is all set to deal with a winter of "renewed Soviet threats" over Berlin.

He expressed hope the assembly would make clear to the Soviet Union it must stop "artificially creating crises" in the divided city, and negotiate a settlement with the West "which pays due regard to the rights and interests of all parties."

ADLAI AGREES — Lord Home made the statements in a major policy speech to the 108-nation assembly. Adlai Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate, commented outside the assembly hall that the speech expressed a viewpoint with which the United States "is in complete accord."

He criticized the United States for sending military aid to Cambodia's two neighbors. He declared the choice is clear—to remain neutral or if survival is at stake to become a satellite of the Eastern bloc.

About Face

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL has reversed his tactics on the Freedomites' trek; he thinks now that if everyone ignores them the problem will disappear. He has called off the police guards and the trekkers are free to go wherever they will.

Undoubtedly the publicity they create by misbehavior fattens the Freedomite ego, but they are apt to conclude they have won an important victory. It is supreme optimism to imagine this alone will satisfy them.

Admittedly Mr. Bonner is in a difficult position. No one knows just how to deal with this dissident and law-defying group short of action contrary to the precepts of a democratic state. He has disowned the Kent municipal bylaw which halted them, and which this newspaper viewed with dubiety as discriminatory legislation and a precedent of danger.

Nor does it help matters to blame the federal government, a favorite device of the Sacred Government to throw responsibility elsewhere. The Freedomites have always been a B.C. problem even if over many years Ottawa has shied away from becoming involved.

But what happens if the trekkers decide to carry out their original plan of surrounding the Agassiz prison in protest against the detention of Freedomites lawfully convicted of arson, violence and related crimes?

Mr. Bonner warns that his new policy poses a hazard for the province. One sympathizes with the predicament this fanatical sect puts him in but it will still be his responsibility to keep that hazard at a minimum.

Better in Sight

ONCE AGAIN the United Nations General Assembly will be called upon to decide whether or not Communist China should be allowed membership in the council of nations.

From 1949 until the present time the United States, with the support of Nationalist China, has successfully blocked all attempts to seat Red China despite mounting pressure from the Communist bloc and the wavering determination of the Western allies.

In following her unswerving policy of balking the Peking regime's admission at every turn, the United States until now has been in an almost unassailable position.

Her strong anti-colonial sentiments and her open pocketbook has held particular appeal for the emerging nations of Africa and Asia and has undoubtedly played a major role in her efforts to enlist their support in keeping Red China out.

The United States' stand is further strengthened by the fact that Communist China is still officially listed by the UN as an aggressor because of the part it played in the Korean war. And finally, of course, even should the General Assembly favor Red China's admission the United States as a permanent member of the Security Council has the power to veto the recommendation.

These are the factors lined up on the side of the United States if she persists in her determination to block Red China's entry. However, there is reason to believe that Washington may now be prepared to change its attitude.

Leading analysts of the American political scene claim the Kennedy administration has finally realized that an ideological or physical enemy does not disappear simply because it is refused recognition.

If in fact the United States government has at last reached this logical conclusion and is now ready to admit Communist China, it should do much to lessen the present East-West tensions and could possibly enhance the Western image behind the bamboo curtain.

Certainly any move in this direction would tend more to strengthen the West than weaken it in the eyes of the Afro-Asian bloc, which now holds the balance of power in the United Nations General Assembly.

If the United States divests itself of its present unrealistic approach to Red China, it will at least succeed in bringing one of its recognized enemies out into the open. And surely it is better to be able to see an enemy than have him out of sight.

A Civic Blot

RECONSTRUCTION or renovation and extension of the city police headquarters has for years been recognized by almost everyone taken there by duty, misadventure or misdeed as not merely desirable but a pressing need.

The general attitude at city hall where the purse-strings are held, however, has been that this improvement can wait. There has been an underlying implication that the police station is good enough for the type of human traffic that goes through it; that the nature of its business relegates it to low priority on the list of civic needs.

It is refreshing therefore, and will be heartening to all who have had to put up with the depressing conditions in the station and police court, that a member of city council in the person of Alderman Michael Griffin has now pointed a condemning finger to the extreme overcrowding of office space, inadequate lighting, ventilation and sanitary facilities, poor courtroom acoustics and seating accommodation, and gloomy, neglected appearance inside the building.

As Alderman Griffin says, these conditions must be conducive to inefficiency and to a lowering of police morale. Nor are they the fitting surroundings of justice.

He calls for immediate action to rectify the situation. This obviously will not be possible to any great extent; there is no money for the purpose in this year's budget, and next year's planning of expenditures is a long way off.

But when city council is considering the plans for extension of city hall and creation of a civic centre, it could appropriately include the renovation and enlargement of the police headquarters as part of the improvement. Otherwise, the dismal station and its dingy courtroom will be a blot on the development that marks Victoria's centenary.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and shoes, and sailing was..."

By TOM TAYLOR

THEY are sprucing up at the Armoury, I believe, for a VIP visitor tomorrow of special significance to all gunners—a master gunner, to wit, in the person of General Sir Robert Mansergh, colonel-commandant of the Royal Regiment of Artillery.

So it is a red-letter day for the 5th (B.C.) Independent Medium Battery of the RCA. Never before has a "Master Gunner" come here to inspect the local unit.

And a famous unit it is, as old-time military men of this area will tell you. In the scale of precedence foot and cavalry may have campaigned before artillery was invented but for Victoria the gunners reign supreme.

They were first on the job; as the anthem assures us Canadians do across the land for Canada, they stood on guard on the ramparts for Victoria in the early days of its growth, ready to repel all invaders.

The 5th, in one form and another, is the best-known regimental name in these parts. They have had small guns and big guns, anti-aircraft guns and now medium guns, but always they have been the heirs of the traditions of Woolwich.

And they can claim a general of their own, if not a master gunner. General Sir Arthur Currie went overseas in the first war as an infantry brigadier, and as you know later commanded the Canadian Corps with distinction, but he was first of all a gunner.

It was the 5th that made him a soldier; it was in their ranks he learned his military trade.

Gunnery began to make its influence felt when in 1718 two companies were established at the Woolwich Centre on the banks of the Thames, the military mart known the world over. There had been what they called "trains of artillery" for some time before this, but the Woolwich establishment marked the corporate entry into the military scene of the Royal Regiment of Artillery. The 5th is of its genre.

The inspecting officer tomorrow is a Woolwich graduate. It was there he began his military career, later to be commissioned in the RFA and go on to success as regimental and staff officer, field commander, and finally commander-in-chief of U.K. land forces.

Many a gunner rises to supreme heights and he is one. He visits the 5th therefore as one of the breed and not merely as an inspecting officer of high rank.

That undoubtedly will spur the battery to its best form tomorrow.

General Mansergh is no longer on the active army list, having retired two years ago and taken up his appointment as "Master Gunner." This is a post that makes him an officer of the Royal Household, one of those ancient offices that link the Sovereign with the armed forces.

Strictly speaking his title is "Master Gunner of St. James Park," one of a group of royal appointments that includes the "Palace," "Field Marshal Earl Alexander," and "Lieutenant of the Tower" (Lt. Gen. Sir Roger Bower). Among his mundane duties fall the royal salutes fired on notable occasions, such as coronations and extraordinary and triumphal happenings.

His ceremonial duties involve his representation of the regiment of which he is colonel-commandant.

Basically he comes here as a master gunner, in title and in fact, to see how gunners in this far Commonwealth outpost maintain the spirit and traditions of their own special military arm.

I fancy he will go away well pleased with what he sees. The modern 5th lives up well to the reputation their forebears bequeathed them.

Playing for Power

Liberal Party Hopes in Britain

By NORA BELAFF

BRITISH politics have always worked on the principle that two is company, three is none. This political habit of "for or against" the government is reinforced by the single-majority voting system which puts a premium on the big parties and pulverizes minorities.

Now, for the first time in decades, the Tory-Labor dichotomy is breaking down. It looks to many people, including notably the Liberals, that Britain may again see what would have seemed a miracle a few years ago: the political heirs of a once great party which was grievously weakened in 1918, adorning the front benches in the House of Commons.

The veteran political experts who flocked to the remote North Welsh seaside resort of Llandudno last week are unwilling to predict when and how this might happen; all they will say is that a Liberal revival is no longer impossible. After recent electoral successes in by-elections the most obvious—but still arithmetically unlikely—way is that the Liberals, in a future election, might win enough seats to hold the balance between the Conservatives and Labor, and then be able to enter a coalition on their own terms.

But what the Liberals really hope for themselves is that under the strains of Britain's entry into the European Common Market, on which the two big parties are sharply divided internally, there might be an entirely new realignment.

The reformist pro-European might desert both Labor and Conservative camps to join Mr. Jo Grimond's Liberals. Two former members of Parliament, one ex-Labor and one ex-Conservative, who took the floor during the Common Market debate, might be the swallows heralding the Liberal spring. Judging from the tempestuous welcome they received the conference certainly seemed to think so.

Sir Frank Medlicott enthralled the assembly by channeling his emotion at being cheered "by so many who marched with the party through the wilderness, while I was sojourning in the tents of the unrighteous." On the other hand Mr. Henry Osborne said he had had to resign from the Labor ranks when he discovered "my brave old party was becoming a bunch of reactionaries."

Nothing illustrates the state of political muddle, or the crowding of party lines better than the newspaper handling of the Common Market crisis. The Labor Party can normally rely on only two popular dailies: the Daily Mirror and the Daily Herald (the latter legally composed by its contract with the trades unions). In the case of the Mirror, the Labor Party has a long-standing and inconsiderate relationship with the paper's editor, Sir Hugh Gaitskelli, to whom the paper owes its very existence.

The first was downed, when the delivery car of a fashionable store, artfully emblazoned with the name of the firm, came in on the right of a line of us, halted for a red intersection, except along with barely any room between us and the curb, and then rabbit-jumped ahead of the leading car so narrowly that we all had to hump on our brakes when the lead car made the sudden stop required. Even the man who took a dim view of the delivery car, and the name on it.

On the outskirts, a delivery truck of a big department store sped across an intersection, raising the hair of 30 or 40 other drivers. On the highway, a giant brewer's trailer truck, with a roar like a lion, broke out of line to pass a string of us and we all had to screech to the shoulder when it suddenly had to get back in line.

Liberal Party leaders are not placing much hope on any rupture inside the Conservative Party, despite the known dislike of most of its rank and file for being dragged into Europe at what seems like the Commonwealth's expense. Although the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference made Mr. Macmillan's task more difficult, the Conservative follow-my-leader tradition and propaganda and patronage facilities at the prime minister's disposal leave him more than an even chance of political survival.

The Labor Party, on the other hand, is in the Liberal view, much easier game. For one thing, the split over the Common Market followed more than a decade of deadly quarrels over both domestic and foreign policy, so that the party seems in serious danger of collapsing from within. The Liberals, who are unanimous in favoring Britain's entry into Europe, see themselves as more in touch with the times and with the younger generation, than their rivals on the left. Unlike the Labor Party, they are not tied up with the trades unions which, through strikes and restrictive practices, have become extremely unpopular with the electorate and a heavy liability to the Labor Party, though, also, an indispensable source of its funds.

The great aim of the Liberal Assembly was, in fact, to present the party to the nation as the radical successor of the Labor Party. The constant theme inspiring the platform speeches, as well as the choice of resolutions on the agenda, was for "bringing Britain up to date."

It was a sophisticated platform. The party made no demagogic concessions either to chauvinism or to the "Poujadism" of little business and marginal farmers, even though public opinion polls show it was from these disgruntled "little men" that the party won a good deal of its recent support.

The party identifies the revival of its fortunes with the personality of its leader, Mr. Jo Grimond, and he is not the man to sacrifice his international principles and radical intentions for vote-catching causes.

In the old days the leader had nothing more to rely on than a bunch of amiable do-gooders, most of whom had nothing much else to do, and used the skeleton of the once great party as an outlet for their own social activities. The debates were so diffuse, rambling, un disciplined and the general tone flabby and purposeless. Now, with the prospects of power, things have changed.

To begin with, the party has the funds to provide itself with a political machine. Anonymous tycoons seem to have resigned themselves to the fact that the Tories can hardly expect a fourth successive electoral victory, and may have felt it wise to put some money into a political alternative which is not Socialist and non-nationalizing. In any case, party funds have more than doubled since last year.

But even more important than the professionalism is the influx of young and energetic men with political ambitions keen to become candidates or party agents; their elders, if they had wanted a political career, would never have chosen the Liberal Party.

The impression from Llandudno is that the Liberal Party, bigger and better organized than before, has not changed either its principles or its complexion. What has happened is that the party has gone back into politics, and is playing for power.

Interior Cut Off

THE interior of Katanga has seen so few white men in a motor car in recent months that crowds of children rushed out of huts to cheer us wildly on a recent trip 600 miles northeast as far as Lake Tanganyika.

In the vast, cut-off interior, there is a huge cattle ranch, on top of a plateau, which now has 35,000 cattle, and has not exported any for a year since communications broke down with Leopoldville. The ranch belongs to a wealthy Belgian company, and the eight Europeans who run it are marking the place with a string of posts from the nearest shops and hospital at Elisabethville—and breeding cattle, and hoping that one day things will be normal again and cattle exporting can resume.

Moero, we found a white mercenary aching about in the river teaching the European administration adviser to the territory how to catch fish with a spear, while behind them followed the mercenary's personal gun-bearer, a small African boy with an automatic rifle dangling perilously from his shoulder.

Across the river, opposite the 17th century Arab slave trading fort, which guards the crossing to the north, we dined with the Catholic fathers in the mission, who told us that independence and the troubles had not yet affected them in any way. The fighting in the north seemed very remote.

In Baudouville itself we found great numbers of Katanga troops. We also found a hospital run by an Englishman who spoke neither French nor Swahili. He inquired whether I could get him some medals and what sort of uniform he should wear as a solitary medic to both civilians and troops, and asked how one would cut off a gangrenous arm, and whether penicillin was good against leprosy.

I found on my return to Elisabethville that this man had no qualifications beyond those of a dining car steward.

Here we also found only eight Europeans. One of them, the local hotel proprietor, was in jail for selling beer at 40 Katangese francs. He was released when he proved that the bootlegger who runs it across the lake from Usumbura charges him 37 francs a bottle anyway. There was a lively policeman at a crossroads, standing on his pedestal in smart uniform waiting for a car to direct. ## Washington Calling

Fresh Bitterness

By MARQUIS CHILDS from The Hague

THIS little country barrier caded against the sea is the most densely populated area in the world. This one fact alone, that there are roughly 1,000 persons to the square mile, explains a great deal about recent Dutch history.

Holland has one of the highest birth rates of any Western country and the increase of births over deaths is only slightly less than that in the United States. On top of this, when Indonesia gained its independence after the Second World War, 200,000 or more Dutch soldiers and colonial administrators had to be repatriated. And it is just here that an old and wounding bitterness has been revived.

The Dutch put a large share of the blame for the loss of their former colony on the United States. If Washington had not sided with Sukarno and the Indonesian rebels then an orderly transition from colonial status to independence over a transition period of 10 to 20 years would have been possible. This is, it should be added, a familiar plaint as the irrepressible force of nationalism has erupted throughout Asia and Africa.

But the Dutch have just taken a second blow and all the old bitterness has been compounded with a fresh resentment. The settlement in West New Guinea, the last Dutch administered territory in the Far East, which forced them to leave with only a brief phase of United Nations supervision before Indonesia takes over, is also blamed on Washington.

Officially the attitude is a stiff upper lip. In her speech from the throne Queen Juliana said that now was the time to forget past quarrels and cultivate a "friendly" relationship with Indonesia. But among the top men of the government and in the press of the country the anger has far from subsided.

Scornful words are poured on Robert Kennedy's five-day visit to Jakarta and his assumption that he understood the problem. The visiting reporter is told that the Russians were keeping hands off as late as last March and only when they saw that Washington meant to force a so-called compromise did they come through with extensive military support for Sukarno. At the height of the outcry Joseph Luns, who has been the Netherlands foreign minister for 10 years, said that while his country would continue to be allies of the United States they could no longer be friends.

Small things as well as large have aggravated the rancor. KLM, the world-wide Dutch airline has been denied landing rights on America's West Coast while airlines of the former enemy countries, Germany and Japan, the visitor is reminded, have been granted such rights.

The Dutch line is flying large numbers of Russian and Chinese "technicians" from Moscow where KLM does have landing rights by way of North Africa and the Dutch Caribbean ports of Curaçao and Aruba to Havana. No matter how much Washington might protest what is so obviously a contribution to the Soviet build-up in Cuba it is evident that The Hague would take little note of it. There are practical reasons for this traffic since KLM must try to earn its way in the fierce competition of the world's airways.

With the surrender of West New Guinea under the "compromise" negotiated through the United Nations an additional 20,000 Dutchmen will return to the homeland. They will come back to jobs of one sort or another since Holland, with high prosperity and rapid industrial growth, has been bringing in workers on a temporary basis from other countries to fill a shortage of at least 100,000. Despite the extraordinary population density, absorbing the returnees from Indonesia after 1945 was not a serious problem.

With their inherent discipline built on centuries of resistance to every kind of invader and always the cold, dark, threatening sea and their remarkable organizing capacity, the Dutch have made their country a model of what can be done with limited resources. Not only have the scars of the war been effaced but industrialization has been pushed to new record levels.

Discontented Jamaica Could Be Next Pawn in Communists' Deadly Game

By ROBERT BETTS
From Kingston, Jamaica
"We will win also in Jamaica!"

The big red and black posters smother Havana. Castro Cubans say they refer to the Caribbean Games. A Westerner wonders. Jamaica, 90 miles south of Cuba, could be the next pawn in the deadly game the Communists are playing. It is the biggest of the West Indies island chain which stretches 1,000 miles across the Caribbean between Cuba and Venezuela. The islands form a line of defence for the Western hemisphere.

Jamaica became independent Aug. 6 after 307 years of British rule. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev lost no time sending his congratulations and establishing diplomatic relations. The veteran Cuban consul, a critic of Castro was suddenly dismissed and replaced by a new one.

Although Jamaica is a member of the British Commonwealth and retains the outward signs of a democratic country, there is a disquieting undercurrent.

Red China Shops For Maize

By EDWARD NEILAN
From Hong Kong

Communist China is shopping in Hong Kong to relieve its acute food shortage. Red representatives have approached local cereal merchants for the purchase of 20,000 tons of maize.

So far, they have succeeded in buying only one-sixth of the requirement for delivery in October and November. Purchases were believed made on deferred payment basis in view of Peiping's dwindling foreign exchange.

As a result of the purchases, the price of maize has jumped in Hong Kong and it is expected to climb higher.

Red China had been depending on Cambodia for maize. But Cambodia sold its surplus this year to Communist North Vietnam. The North Vietnamese, involved in a guerrilla war with American-backed South Vietnam, are experiencing food production troubles of their own.

The pattern is the same in Communist countries of Asia. Boasting of superior land reform and agricultural policies, the Red nations are the worst off. Harvests are dwindling. The Red peasant has never had it so bad.

Meanwhile, the Chinese Communists' Central Committee has ordered investigations in several provinces on "vegetable production." Between the lines of the Red announcement is the implication that vegetable harvests are lagging, as well as grain production.

Before I got married I had six theories about bringing up children; now I have six children, and no theories.
LORD ROCHESTER.

Jamaicans enter the labor market annually. There is a shortage of skilled workers. Only 7 per cent earn more than $840 a year.

The birth rate is increasing 2.5 per cent annually. The overcrowded slums grow steadily worse.

Jamaica's wealth comes mainly from large bauxite deposits, developed by American and Canadian companies, some other minerals, agricultural products and tourism.

There was an $86,000,000 trade deficit last year.

Prime Minister Alexander Bustamante, 78, is a fiery labor leader and veteran anti-Communist. Opposing him is Norman Manley, who leads the mildly socialist People's National Party. Both say they want to improve the welfare of their people and build a prosperous country. Both declare themselves anti-Communist.

Another political figure who has stepped into the widening gap between Jamaica's haves and have-nots is Millard Johnson, an Oxford-educated lawyer whose People's Political Party makes an out-and-out appeal to racism. PPP slogans are daubed in red on Kingston's walls.

Jamaica is bombarded with daily English-language broadcasts from Communist Cuba urging the people to revolt. There is a constant flow of Cubans into Kingston. On the plane that brought me from Havana were two men I knew to be Communist agents.

Counter-intelligence men in Jamaica are on the alert for Communists. During raids on the homes of suspects and the offices of organizations which served as Communist fronts, police found correspondence with the Castro government, propaganda literature, lists of names, and documents referring to an intended revolutionary outbreak.

BACKGROUND

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length, and, if signed with a pen-name must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

It has been quite evident ever since the Progressive-Conservative government took office that the CBC has been anti-government.

News commentators, with few exceptions, have been slanted in their presentation of news, but the climax came with the Ottawa broadcast of the election of the new Speaker of the House.

This was so distorted that it was terminated before the close of the ceremony. The CBC excuse was that the microphone over the Prime Minister was not working nor the PA system functioning properly.

Once or twice when one could hear Mr. Diefenbaker's speech, it was promptly blotted out by a running commentary by the CBC commentator, and it was plain the public were not allowed to hear Mr. Diefenbaker.

The only really intelligent part was the applause when Mr. Pearson spoke. We pride ourselves on freedom of speech and regardless of political affiliations, let us demand that freedom.

This was either the most disgraceful exhibition of CBC incompetency or deliberate political sabotage and either merits stern disciplinary action.

B.C. Electric Takeover

Your new legislative correspondent, Terry Hammond, having obviously appointed himself a Sacred Image maker, would do well to take a second look at the image he has created on the B.C. Electric takeover.

The whole tone of his column is "the end justifies the means." An approach the B.C. Communist Party has already commended. He does not appear to be able to understand the simple fact that Premier Lesage of Quebec and B.C. Opposition Leader Strachan are merely making the point that they are honest; they believe in democracy, and they have moral principles.

If, by holding to these principles, they fail to accomplish any given object, they do not consider their cause lost and they emerge head and shoulders above the warped figures in history who have gained their ends in the manner advocated by Mr. Hammond.

One would, of course, have to agree with Mr. Hammond when he says Premier Bennett's method of takeover "was consistent with its motive." The motive was not public ownership of power to provide the consumer with cheap electricity, but merely to force high cost Peace River power on the public in order to salvage the political damage of the Wenner-Gren fiasco.

H. A. L. FANTHORPE,
2934 Cedar Hill Road.
Editor's Note: The Colonist recommends that interested readers review Mr. Hammond's column in search of the "tone" or the advocacy attributed to him by Mr. Fanthorpe.

Mr. Pearson's Challenge

The Liberal leader's outburst challenging the other groups to defeat the elected Diefenbaker government reminds one of the lawyer who advises his client to sue "I'll handle the case."

Mr. Pearson clearly claims in his Sorel, Quebec, speech as reported in the Colonist Sept. 23, that his is the only party that can benefit from a defeat of the government.

The Social Credit and NDP parties have worked hard to win their seats and are anxious to be heard and to help bring about the best possible government for Canada regardless of the party in power.

This is their pledge to the electors. It is not a betrayal of their mandate from the electors to support the Diefenbaker government.

Both the Social Credit and NDP leaders are on record as willing to support the government so long as legislation for the good of the people is enacted.

It would indeed be foolish and a betrayal if Social Credit and NDP voted themselves out of the opportunity to be heard in Parliament and a position of importance just to please Mr. Pearson to whom the rebuke of the electors of Canada is not a new emotion or experience.

W. E. FRANKLIN.

More Significant

The government, we understand, contemplate using the word "beautiful" British Columbia on the 1964 licence plates.

Undoubtedly British Columbia is beautiful beyond description; nevertheless, a more significant word would be appropriate to a greater extent than this general appellation and should stimulate added interest.

In my view, "Totem Land" is the right word. It has already been endorsed by responsible organizations both on the mainland and on Vancouver Island. The totem poles of British Columbia are historic monuments and are recognized as such by the government, hence the renovation work that is being done to preserve them for posterity.

"Totem Land" is a short word and would easily incorporate with other licence plate data. It should provoke the curiosity of strangers and may influence some of them to come to British Columbia to explore something of our Indian history and totem lore.

Emotion in Control —Allies Can't See

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press

George Ball, United States undersecretary of state, says the proposed construction in Cuba of a big new port for Soviet trawlers deepens Russia's hold on the Caribbean island.

This, he told a group of editors in Washington Wednesday, is "an unhappy situation" in that Cuba will be further exploited to serve Russia's interests.

URNS LATER

Pentagon authorities go a step farther, suggesting the trawlers, armed with electronic and other spying devices, increase the Soviet threat in the Western Hemisphere. They predict Soviet submarines may follow the trawlers into Cuba.

But while official U.S. concern mounts over expanding Soviet power in the Caribbean, still greater fear is reported that the Cuban issue may split the North Atlantic alliance.

RESTRICT USE

State Secretary Rusk has appealed to NATO countries to restrict use of their commercial shipping in hauling Communist cargoes to Cuba.

Except for West Germany, which responded quickly and favorably, major NATO powers virtually told Rusk there is little they can do in time of peace and that anyway Cuba is mainly an American problem.

AMERICANS IRATE

This has further infuriated segments of the American public, already embittered by the lack of forthright assistance by Latin American and European Allies toward ousting the Fidel Castro regime.

Many non-Americans fail to understand that the Cuban issue has become a widespread symbol to American frustration in the cold war; that reason has given way to unbridled emotions.

TURNING FIRE

Newspaper columnists who have been attacking the Kennedy administration for lack of action now are turning their fire on U.S. Allies. Their argument is that Cuba is not solely an American problem because Soviet aggression does not recognize geographic limits.

Columnist William S. White, writing in the Washington Star, suggests it would be wise for the Allies to understand the mood of Congress and the people.

BECOME UGLY

"Cuba may be trivial to them (the Allies)," he writes, "but to Congress and the country it is far from that; and the present mood of bewildered anger can, without much provocation, become ugly indeed from their viewpoint."

JURE Sets Plans For Revolt

MIAMI (AP)—The revolutionary Junta, a new anti-Castro organization headed by former underground chief-tain Manuel Ray, announced plans Thursday for a sabotage and guerrilla campaign inside Cuba.

Groundwork to create an internal uprising is under way, said Rogelio Chaceros, spokesman in Miami for the revolutionary group, known as JURE.

Castro's Guns Execute 75 For Murder, Invasion Plot

HAVANA (AP)—About 300 persons have been rounded up and 75 shot in a purported plot to assassinate Prime Minister Fidel Castro and clear the way for an invasion, informed sources said Thursday.

The informants said two counter-revolutionary groups were accused of plotting disorders in late August as a prelude to invasion of the overthrow of Castro's regime. Castro and other government figures were said to have been marked for death.

The two counter-revolutionary groups were identified as the anti-communist Liberation Front and the Movement for the Recovery of the Cuban Revolution. The regime accused both of working closely with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The sources said those executed went before firing squads last week at La Cabana fortress across the entrance to Havana Bay. Twenty-seven others were sentenced to from two to 30 years in prison.

The sources gave this account of the charges: The FAL's uprising, set for late August, would begin with sabotage of the big Havana light and power station near the docks. It would spread to all provinces, with landings in eastern Cuba. The MRRC, which included many active and retired police officials, would attempt assassinations of Castro and other leaders. It also would try to capture police stations near the presidential palace in Havana and at Santiago de las Vegas, near the international airport.

REPORT URGENT
The reported arrests and executions followed several recent reports of uprising and unrest.

Last June a new outbreak of counter-revolutionary activity was reported in Matanzas province, where they were demonstrations against food shortages.

In August, a group of Cuban student exiles in two boats shelled a Havana hotel from offshore.

Hunger strikes were reported this month in Las Villas province, and rumors circulated of an uprising there. The government mobilized part of the militia Aug. 30 and unusually heavy guards were posted that week-end at most major buildings and installations in Havana.

Supplies Bought

Doukhobors Sit Tight At Bromley

PRINCETON (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, camped near here since Sept. 16, remained at their Bromley campsite Thursday.

Several of the Sons, however, made trips to this town 180 miles east of Vancouver to buy supplies.

An RCMP roadblock which stopped the sect's movement was lifted Wednesday and Attorney General Bonner said they are being left to their own devices.

FIREPROOF PRISON

The Freedomites, long blamed for terrorism in the Kootenays, left their homes Sept. 2 vowing to trek to Agassiz.

However, they were blocked in the attempt to march to a special fireproof prison which houses convicted Sons terrorists by a Kent municipality by-law which denied them access through the municipality to the federal institution.

WONT DO THEM

The campers, at one stage 1,200 strong, say they won't leave the camp until Mr. Bonner comes to discuss their problem with them. Mr. Bonner says he won't do this.

Travellers said the Bromley campsite was quiet Thursday with no sign of any mass movement.

Asian Flu Epidemic Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're over 45, pregnant, or suffering from a chronic disease, Surgeon General Luther L. Terry of the U.S. public health service has this advice: Take flu shots right away. It looks like it's going to be a bad winter for Asian flu.

The last widespread Asian flu epidemic occurred during winter of 1956-57. Since the disease hits in cycles of two or three years, a large outbreak is due this winter, probably mid-December.

CAN BE MILD

Dr. Terry said the impact of Asian flu on a healthy young person is relatively mild. But its debilitating effects can be quite serious for certain types of people.

Long experience indicates the greatest risks occur when influenza strikes people over 65 years of age, pregnant women and those suffering from chronic illnesses, he said.

Ecumenical Council No Rubber-Stamp

By BERTRAND THIBAUT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

One of the most spectacular ceremonies of the Roman Catholic church will be held in Rome Oct. 11 when the Pope and 2,800 bishops wearing their white mitres attend the solemn high mass marking the opening of the ecumenical council.

After mass, Msgr. Pericle Felici, secretary of the council, will place an open gospel on the altar. An opening sermon will be given by a bishop, then the bishops will pay homage to the Pope.

Fathers' Oath

Pope John XXIII, after reciting the Litany of Saints and a prayer to the Holy Ghost, will deliver an address disclosing the aim of the council, then will start the hymn Veni Creator.

The first thing the fathers of the council—cardinals, archbishops and bishops—will do will be to swear allegiance to the Pope and the church.

Some say this oath is a limitation on free speech. Church officials say it has no more influence on ecumenical debates than the oath taken by a parliamentarian interfering with his freedom of speech.

Same Degree

They say the same degree of freedom with which the 102-member central commission discussed and amended the draft decrees—working papers—will exist in the ecumenical debates.

Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, who was a member of the commission and of the four-member amendments commission, said the working papers "were corrected and even considerably cut."

The working papers are not decisions completely settled by the Pope and submitted to members of the council for rubber-stamping. These draft decrees will be debated, amended or rejected as the fathers see fit.

Never Returned

The first Vatican council of 1870 offers some examples of this. A draft decree on the spiritual life and the duties of priests was returned to a commission for amendments, but it never came back before the council after Most Rev. Bravard of Coutances, France, said after a long speech:

"... May this draft decree return whence it came and be buried, with the tears of its father if he so desires. As for me, I shall express only one wish on its tomb: May it rest

Compensation

Individual Protests Out of Luck

VANCOUVER (CP)—Workers or employers appealing individual Workmen's Compensation Board rulings will get short shrift when royal commission hearings open here Monday.

Commission clerk Graham Leslie said Wednesday the hearings by Chief Justice A. C. DenBrasay of the appeal court will enquire into general administration matters.

NO AUTHORITY

He said there is a general belief that persons wishing to dispute board rulings can appear to appeal personal cases, and have the commissioners order redress.

"The commissioner has no authority to order the board to do anything," Mr. Leslie said.

DEPEND PARTLY

The commissioner will report on his enquiry to the legislature when hearings are concluded.

Dates and places of future hearings will depend partly on the commissioner's ability to fit in dates with his court schedule.

Vatican News Chills Thousands

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican came up with some chilling news yesterday for delegates to the ecumenical council—there will be no heating in St. Peter's Basilica.

Engineers working on preparations for the council, which opens Oct. 11, said they found it impossible to install a heating plant in the cavernous church where 3,000 delegates will assemble each day.

The best they have been able to do, they said, is to put a layer of rubber on the floor and stairs to ward off the chill of the marble.

Roman winters are not so severe as those in more northerly climes, but sitting in St. Peter's for several hours on a winter day will be a chilly proposition.

More than 200 workmen are putting final touches on physical preparations for the council. They have had to work for months while thousands of tourists and pilgrims streamed through the church.

Engineers have installed 40 loudspeakers inside the church for the council and they got some expert advice on where to place the papal throne.

BETTER VIEW

Pope John XXIII suggested that, rather than putting it alongside the canopy of the main altar it might be better to place it in front of the canopy to give journalists and photographers a better view. The suggestion was carried out.

Within a few days the Vatican will open a special two-room office near the basilica for use by the 1,000 Italian and foreign newsmen expected.

others, led Bishop Falon of Nancy, France, to write: "Many speakers give me the impression they speak with a revolver in their hand and the finger on the trigger."

The second Vatican council, as other councils, likely will have lively debates that may recall the famous saying of Bishop Falon:

Careful Study

In the light of past experience, the decrees flowing from the council will have been carefully studied and debated before they are adopted or rejected by the fathers' vote.

The "placet" or "non placet"—Latin for the yes and no—of the prelates will settle the issues. A two-thirds majority is required. The counting of votes will be done electronically.

Beyond Words

But it will be up to the Pope alone, to proclaim by means of a bull the decrees approved by the council.

Discussion in ecumenical councils has in past occasionally gone beyond words.

At the council of Trent, the longest in the church's history—it was spread over 18 years, from 1545 to 1563—one bishop pulled a fistful of whisksers from another's beard.

'Live The Council'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII said Thursday all Catholics must become "a bit like journalists" in seeking and spreading information about the Ecumenical Council.

He stressed the importance of widespread and correct information and said all Catholics should discuss it in everyday conversation, "live the council, without paying attention to the fantasies of the world, but seeking information from authentic sources on its value and progress. In order to be able to speak a sensible and authoritative word also in the humble relations of everyday life."

Concrete Sea Serpent May Rear Its Head

A concrete Cadborosaurus sea serpent may one day rear its funny head from the sandy beach of Cadboro-Gyro Park, if anything comes of a suggestion made to Nanaimo park officials.

Cadborosaurus is the name given to a serpent which occasionally is reported sighted off the Victoria waterfront.

The concrete model would have tunnels for children to climb through and crawl holes in the side of its scaly belly. It would complement the mockup, concrete ship which was built for kiddies to play on at the beach.

Nanaimo park committee chairman Gregory Cook, who said recently he would like to see some type of imaginative, abstract sculpture added to existing facilities at the park, said yesterday he was "quite taken" with the suggestion.

Council Became 'Laughing Stock' In Smoke Issue

City council has become the laughing stock of Greater Victoria because its attempts to beat the smoke problem have dragged on for so long with no success, Ald. Austin Curtis said yesterday.

Seen In Passing

Bill Houston looks over a mechanical job. He and partner Art Souchard operate a shop at Yates and Fort. He's single and lives at home with his parents, Harry and Anne, at 2708 Scott. His hobby is—naturally—cars and he's an active member of the Golden Krugger Car Club.

Chuck McLeod, getting dinner for a friend. Jack Hamilton, checking up on insurance rates. At Rutledge, explaining carnivals in his own words. Hugh Wade, dusting off an old book. Walter Patterson, walking along Fort Street. Ron Brown, using his round. George McEwen, talking about time in Banff. Christine Reynolds, getting ready to go to her daughter's wedding in Honolulu. Jim Munroe, in a pay telephone.

Bottle Drive Soon

Box Acacia and Cuba from the St. Juan de Fuca group will collect bottles throughout the Colwood area Saturday morning beginning at 9:15. Residents are asked to contribute to the drive.

'Second Best' Hint Attacked by Toone

Any implication that city council was trying to hint at "second best" accommodation on earlier citizens' needs was not good purpose, Ald. A. W. Toone said yesterday.

He said such an inference could be drawn from the recent letter signed by Silver Thredwell, service president Owen Kana which urged the city to consider a new building rather than renovate an existing structure to serve as a recreation centre for senior citizens.

ALREADY GIVEN

"We are not lagging behind in this regard," said Ald. Toone, chairman of the special committee handling planning of the Centennial Square project. "Instructions have already been given to establish

One of "unusual attractions" at Kinsmen fair last night was Ald. Millard Mooney, only civic representative at Salute to Victoria celebration. Here he discusses space capsule with Kenny Bell, 4, of 860 Ferrie, Ald. Lily Wilson later attended show.

And the Prize

Boy Cook Takes Cake

By BOB PETHICK

A 12-year-old boy with an unusual hobby was presented with an award for his special talent at the Kinsmen Fall Fair this week.

Russell Revo, 872 Wollastone, won a special baking award for a chocolate cake he whipped up for the fair.

The young lad with a winning smile started with this unusual hobby of cooking some three years ago when asthma slowed up his normal playing habits.

His first experiment in the cooking field was a pie, but it didn't come off as planned.

FIXEYED

"There was pie crust all over the floor and the kitchen counter, but his father cleaned it up before I got home," said the boy's mother, Mrs. Bruce Revo.

His next attempt was with peanut butter cookies and these were not only edible but delicious as his whole family will testify.

From that time on he began to take cooking seriously and graduated to steaks, chops and mashed potatoes.

He makes the finest scrambled eggs and bacon you ever

Salute To Whom?

By TED HARRIS

Despite weeks of preparations and planning for a salute to Victoria at Kinsmen Fall Fair yesterday—it was a flop.

Kinsmen members who spent hundreds of hours planning the fair and Victoria Day program suffered their greatest disappointment when there was little response from invited city officials.

RECORD TURNOUT

But, while Kinsmen were disappointed with civic dignitaries, chairman Jack Phillips beamed at the crowd of 6,000 visitors who enjoyed the hundreds of displays.

At a special evening ceremony, only Ald. Millard Mooney was presented on the main stage. Ald. Lily Wilson arrived for the ceremony a few minutes later.

TAKEN ON TOUR

As honours were conferred on the "promised official party," the small Victoria group was taken on a tour of the colorful fair.

"We are very disappointed that the mayor of Victoria and other aldermen and their wives didn't attend," Mr. Phillips said. "Actually it seems a bit shocking after all the notice we gave them."

FIREWORKS SHOW

Seats were also reserved aboard the special "land-based helicopter" for visiting dignitaries to watch the $1,250 fireworks display saluting Victoria.

Up to closing last night more than 15,000 persons had passed through the gates, far more than our expectations," Mr. Phillips said.

WIDE-EYED

Even though the fireworks display lasted five minutes, thousands of fairgoers were wide-eyed after the 45-minute spectacular blossomed over their heads.

Only ones who didn't appreciate the display were Equim police who worked tediously to clear all the streets of traffic.

"They just wouldn't move," one officer said.

"It sure was a good show," he added.

Answer to Traffic Problems

$600,000 Blanshard Bylaw May Go to Voters in Winter

By IAN STREET

A second money bylaw vote in December, this one probably for just over $600,000 to carry out Blanshard Street extension, became a possibility yesterday at a special meeting of city council and public works committee.

City engineer James Garnett told the meeting this sum would cover estimated cost of acquiring right-of-way for full arterial width while constructing a roadway to city street width.

It would alleviate immediate traffic problems created by opening of the $6,000,000 Mayfair shopping centre on Douglas in October, 1963, and still not inhibit future widening of Blanshard to arterial standards when needed the engineer said.

Despite strong support for the engineers' plan from aldermen and planners, no firm decision was reached at yesterday's meeting.

There was no disagreement over the need for a new street to channel traffic from the north Douglas Street, shopping centre downtown, and aldermen appeared satisfied with the choice of route from Tolmie to Rose Street linking up with Blanshard near Memorial Arena.

Mayor Voices Fears

Mayor R. B. Wilson voiced the fears of some when he raised the question of financing.

"It really boils down to a matter of cost," the mayor said. "We could have what seems to be a reasonable connection between Rose Street and the end of the existing Blanshard Street for between $100,000 and $110,000."

"We could have a better road for $350,000, $600,000 or $800,000 depending on variations of the scheme adopted. Thus it becomes a matter of dollars and cents."

There is also the important matter of timing, the mayor added.

He wanted to know if the engineers' recommended scheme could be completed by October, 1963, and whether approval could be obtained in time for the section of Blanshard Street extension which was to be completed under urban renewal.

The answer to the first part was yes, said Mr. Garnett, provided the money bylaw was approved by ratepayers in December and property acquisition began immediately. But there is no hope, the engineer added, of obtaining urban renewal assistance on this timetable.

A strong possibility exists, however, that work on Blanshard carried out between January and May of next year would qualify under the federal winter works program, which would cut costs.

The Jewish New Year begins with services at Temple Emanuel tonight at 8 p.m. Rosh Hashana (day of atonement) services begin at sundown Oct. 1 and continue all day Oct. 2.

Juvenile Home

Money Still Obstacle

Financial problems remain to be ironed out before tenders can be called for construction of a new juvenile detention home, city council was told yesterday.

Ald. Lily Wilson said the building committee had approved final plans for the home.

CALL FOR TENDERS

She suggested council ask the Greater Victoria inter-municipal committee, which meets next week, to call for tenders immediately. "We'd like to hurry this thing up," Ald. Wilson said.

"We have the money," said Ald. Michael Griffin.

Ald. Wilson said "yes" but finance chairman Ald. Arthur Dowell cut in sharply: "Where has it come from?"

NO FUNDS YET

It was pointed out that, although $100,000 for the juvenile detention home had been included in the list of projects for which application had been made under the federal winter works incentive plan, no funds had yet been appropriated.

City comptroller James Hranecy said there was only money would come from the tax sale land fund. Nanaimo and Oak Bay will contribute to the cost of the home which will serve all three municipalities.

CPR Ships Co., Handling Stays

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian Pacific Railway officials said Thursday there will be no reduction in its handling of merchandise services between Vancouver Island and the mainland when their two ships are removed from service Monday.

Summary of Costs

It was finally agreed all members of council would receive a sketch plan and summary of costs of the alternate proposals.

● Acquisition of 110-foot right-of-way and construction of the roadway from Tolmie to Blanshard near the arena to full 100-foot arterial width at a total estimated cost of $600,000. Most desirable, but probably too costly at present.

Builders Plan Dinner Meeting

The semi-annual dinner meeting of the Victoria Building Industry Exchange will be held in the Empress Hotel Nov. 7.

Principal speaker will be David Smith, chief inspector of the British Columbia department, who has chosen the National Housing Act for his topic. More than 120 exchange members and guests are expected.

Getty, Coffey Sidelined Possibly for Season

EDMONTON (CP) — Knee injuries suffered by quarterback Don Getty and end Tommy-Joe Coffey during the last week have struck a low blow in Edmonton Eskimos' drive for a Western Football Conference playoff berth.

Getty suffered a torn knee capsule Monday night in an interlocking game against Toronto Argonauts while Coffey's injury occurred two days earlier in a game at Montreal against the Alouettes.

Both are doubtful starters when Eskimos meet B.C. Lions in a crucial game here Saturday night.

Coach Eagle Keys, who has been shuffling his lineup because of injuries since the second game of the season, said Thursday, "Right now I'm thinking in terms of Jim Walden starting Saturday. Walden was picked up in a trade with Montreal three weeks ago when first-string quarterback Jackie Parker broke a collarbone. He has since seen action as a defensive half and corner linebacker.

Wednesday night the club's medical staff said an operation was necessary to correct the injury. Just when the operation will be performed has yet to be decided, but says Keys, "It is definite Don must have an operation."

NOT RULED OUT

While the prospects appeared bleak that Getty would dress for Saturday's game, Keys said the possibility hasn't been ruled out.

Coffey's injury hasn't been pinned down, but Keys said "there is some damage to the knee muscles and ligaments."

"Like Getty, he could be finished for the year."

Parker, injured Labor Day, was scheduled to come off the injury reserve list Oct. 5. If the injury has healed his first action could come against Calgary here Oct. 6.

Riders Sign Colts Star

REGINA (UPI) — Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference Thursday announced the signing of former National League star Steve Myrha to a 1962-63 contract.

Myrha, who was the third leading scorer in the National Football League last year, joined the Roughriders Thursday.

He played the last five years with the Baltimore Colts and gained most of his fame as a place-kicker. His 96 points last year amounted to the third highest total, ranking behind Paul Hornung and Bobby Walston. He kicked a record-equaling 26 field goals. He also plays offensive guard and linebacker.

Bombers Beat Larks, 31-23

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers avenged a 53-0 pre-season exhibition loss by defeating Montreal Alouettes 31-23 Thursday night in a Canadian Football League game before 16,520 fans.

Montreal opened fast to hold a 7-6 edge after the first quarter, but watched it slip away before the half when Winnipeg went in front 22-14. In a lacklustre third quarter each side picked up a single point.

Passers were severely hampered throughout by a stiff, chilling wind gusting to 20 miles an hour.

Fullbacks Roger Hagberg and Gerry James accounted for own 13-yard punt on the Montreal 50-yard line.

The play came near to setting up a touchdown, the drive broken off when George Drumm dropped a lateral from Bombers' quarterback Kenny Ploen on the Montreal 15-yard line after Ploen had gained 12 yards on an option play around left end.

Winnipeg scored 13 points in the first half, 18 in the second.

Winnipeg's scoring was aided by a strong defensive effort that kept Montreal's offense from doing much damage.

Winnipeg's defense held Montreal to 100 yards in the first half and 135 in the second.

On the eve of British Columbia's first Hunter Safety Week—Oct. 1 to 7—comes word of this year's first hunting fatality. . . an American hunter stepped into his partner's line of fire at Francois Lake, near Burns Lake, B.C.

Statistics show hunting is a comparatively safe sport—five persons were killed in B.C. last year, four of them on Vancouver Island—but, the tragic thing is that just about all shooting accidents can be prevented by safe practices.

That is the point hunters will be trying to put across in their Hunter Safety—Be a Red Cap Man Week, initiated by the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs and supported by the provincial department of recreation.

Hunters are asked to wear a red cap all week, even to work, and bumper strips are now being issued at Victoria sporting goods stores.

Teams of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association members will be available upon request to any service club or group wishing a talk about safety habits.

MacMillan, Blodell and Powell River's Ash River operation was one of few areas open to hunters last weekend and from there 135 vehicles with 362 people returned with 354 trout, 77 grouse and 13 deer. At Franklin River MBPR claim 84 vehicles with 192 people got three fish, five grouse and two deer.

Joe Polier, Lawrie Watts and Ernie Marsh have returned with good reports from Churn Creek-Gang Ranch area. . . and one moose and two mule deer.

Denis Hagar and Ed Cuppage found their trip to Dawson Creek and Fort St. John for sharp-tailed and prairie chickens a bust because of the big winter kill of birds this year, but they got their limit of ducks at Spirit River, 400 miles north of Edmonton, and also managed to pick up some chukars and blues.

It's now or never for coho, almost anywhere on the Island, except Cowichan Bay should stay good until the end of October. Fish are schooling at the river mouths along the east coast of the Island from Kelsey Bay, past Campbell River to Qualicum. One day you get in a school and get not fishing. Next day the school has moved closer, or into the river.

Alberni Inlet has slowed down and this may be the last weekend for fishing off Port Alberni, as it is rumored fisheries officials may close that area this weekend, although they usually wait until after the Alberni Valley Tye Club fishoff, scheduled for Oct. 7.

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association holds its annual two-day Cerebral Palsy Coho Derby Saturday and Sunday and the fishing picture is brightest it has been for years.

Top consolation prize will be a 14-foot aluminum cartop boat and there are plenty of fishing prizes.

There are coho all the way from Cowichan Bay, Cherry Point, Hatch Point, Deep Cove, Mill Bay and down past Sandy Beach and Bamerton. These are Cowichan Bay coho, responding to Cowichan Bay fishing techniques.

There are also good numbers of Saanich Inlet coho scattered around the Inlet, as far down as the Stone House and these respond to a different technique.

For Saanich Inlet coho you bucktail only from daybreak until about 9 a.m. and then start going deeper and deeper. The Cowichan Bay coho are just as liable to bite at 3 p.m. as at daybreak, but they have definite activity periods, and if there is no bite you are out of luck.

Jim Gilbert offers some advice to bucktailers. He says you can use bucktail and spinner on the surface; bucktail and spinner fished deep with two, six or even eight ounces, or flasher and bucktail. In the Inlet use standard fly, with spinner, and short line.

He uses a dropper line over the stern, letting out 30 feet of line then putting on two or three ounces of weight, letting out eight more feet of line, and the fly washes about near the surface in the wake of the boat.

He uses two other bucktail lines on the sides with split lead weights to keep them under water and two in the middle with two and four ounces. The rougher the day, the shorter the line.

This week he has been getting jacksprings at Mill Bay-Bamerton with eight-pound drop weights and 250 feet of line.

Freshwater fishing is picking up all over, in both lakes and rivers. Lloyd Jermain has just returned from Upper Campbell Lake and reports dry fly and wet fly fishing for cuts and rainbows near the mouth of the Elk River as "super." Cutthroat trout are now following the salmon up the river mouths.

Tough new '63 Chevrolet Trucks

...THE ONES THAT WHIPPED THE BAJA RUN...
TOUGHEST UNDER THE SUN...TO SHOW THE WORTH OF NEW ENGINES, FRAMES AND SUSPENSIONS!

Millions of years ago nature fashioned a proving ground for trucks that man can never duplicate. Today it is known as the Baja (bah hah) California Peninsula, Mexico.

If you think you build a tough truck, this is the place to find out.

From Tijuana to Cabo San Lucas at the lower tip is a thousand miles of trail that defies description and also anyone who challenges it, every foot of the way. This road bears no resemblance to the modern highways on the Mexican mainland.

You carry all fuel, water, food, other supplies. There are no corner supermarkets.

These pictures give you only a bare idea of the place. The road is fine for 140 miles below the U.S. border.

Then the beating begins. Rocks, ruts, washboard and washout punch, jab and jerk the trucks from stem to stern. Worse than corduroy, or driving along railway ties!

Loose sand makes them struggle and strain.

Dust chokes them. Heat roasts them.

Rivers drench them.

The Baja Run took this Chevrolet truck caravan 17 days to go the 1,066 miles. Hours and hours were spent in low gear. The most distance ground out in any one day was 200 miles in 19 hours; the least was 32 miles in 9 hours. Highest temperature encountered was 122 degrees F. at Dry Lake.

The Chevrolet caravan was made up of a Carryall, a 1/2-ton pickup with new 230-cu.-in. 6-cylinder engine, a 3/4-ton pickup with new 292-cu.-in. 6-cylinder engine, a medium-duty unit with refrigerated van, a medium-duty diesel tanker, and a heavy-duty tandem.

All the trucks performed magnificently. Not one was forced to drop out because of mechanical difficulty. Each day's run was finished on schedule.

Trucks that can take this kind of beating can take on your toughest truck jobs. See these tough quality-built '63 Chevrolet trucks with all their new improvements at your Chevrolet dealer's.

QUALITY TRUCKS COST LESS

A General Motors Value

When you came to a river, you got wet. This Baja river bottom was covered with rocks, as was most of the road. What a test for '63 light- and heavy-duty suspension.

Tight squeeze for the medium- and heavy-duty units in this narrow gorge. Their new narrower front ends certainly paid off here (7 inches slimmer). Users who operate in close quarters will like this new '63 feature.

The new ladder-type frames on all models took severe punishment from this terrain (as did all components). Shown is the 1/2-ton pickup with new 292-cu.-in. 6-cylinder engine.

Temperatures as high as 122 degrees F. burned the land in the desert area around Dry Lake — one more ordeal any truck that goes to Baja has to shrug off.

See the "New Reliables" now at your Chevrolet dealer's!

Cookie Gilchrist Wins New Fans in Buffalo

By BOB FREWIN

BUFFALO (TNS) — From sackcloth to ermine in two months—that's the latest twist in the pretzled football career of Chester Carleton (Cookie) Gilchrist, fullback errant.
Only two months ago Gilchrist was a property no Canadian football team would touch, even at the ridiculously low waiver tag of $350.

BIG HEADACHE

Cookie was a virtual exile, a $19,000-a-year super star whose off-field involvements had become too painful a headache for the Toronto Argonaut front office to bear. So the Argos shuffled him off to Buffalo.

But it all came up roses for Chester Gilchrist. After nine years as a ranking start in Canadian pro football, Gilchrist started over again as a suspect 'rookie' with the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

REAL BOX OFFICE

Today, Gilchrist is the biggest box office draw in town, the AFL's leading ball carrier with 153 yards on 22 carries and the man the Bills' management hopes will lead them to their first winning and profitable season in three AFL years.

He is, incidentally, only a game or two away from being elected Buffalo's Football Mayor. Already Buffalo's wisened football fans are comparing him with Jimmy Brown and Marion Motley, two Cleveland Brown fullbacks who became local models through TV exposure of the Brown games.

THEY LIKE HIM

This is what Buffalo football men say about Cookie—the Argonaut exile:
Dick Gallagher, Bill's general manager — Because of Cookie's reputation in Canada, we didn't know what we were getting when he came here. We told him all we expected was that he'd play football.

"He has been no trouble off the field and he's been wonderful on it. The other players like him and he has become our cheer-leader."

Charlie Burr, publicity director — "The Bills are happy with him as a ball-player and as a person. It didn't take our fans long to like him. Now when he comes down the field they yell 'Lookie, Lookie, Lookie, Here Comes Cookie'."

"We can sell him all over the league. He's the first bona fide star we've had. We've had lots of college names who didn't work out. Cookie came here with a great reputation in Canada and he's proved he can play."

Lou Saban, Buffalo coach — "Cookie has fitted right in. We knew he could run—the things that have surprised us have been his blocking and pass receiving."

On the technical side, Gallagher pays Cookie this great compliment — "He's a better blocker than Jimmie Brown."

On the business side, Gallagher looks to Cookie as the box office attraction to give The Bills their first break-even season since they became AFL charter members in 1960. By Gallagher's estimate The Bills lost $270,000 their first two seasons.

Holiday Beatniks

By JACK FRY

"We're not Beatniks, we're really respectable people," the young man with a beard and dark glasses said when he was stopped by a reporter on the Causeway.

He wore a grey pullover sweater, a pair of slacks and brown suede shoes, and he was puffing on a pipe. A quiet young woman with him also wore a grey pullover sweater, black stretch pants and a pair of hand-made leather sandals.

A DOCTOR

Dr. Gerald Haas, 28, of London, England, and his wife Terry, an occupational therapist, are touring Canada and the United States before returning to England. He recently completed a year of post-graduate studies at Boston University medical school in preparation for his profession as a pediatrician.

Why were such highly educated people mistaken for beatniks?

"Well, we have to be so respectable when we go back to London that this is the time to lax our inhibitions," said the doctor.

ON HOLIDAY

"We are really respectable people on holiday. But we are thinking of crashing a beatnik hangout in San Francisco about a week from now."

However, the pseudo-beatniks will have a hard time convincing the Frisco crowd. For one thing, they were clean.

Pseudo-Beatniks visiting Victoria caught the eyes of all but stately Queen Victoria, who remained undisturbed about antics of young British couple having their last uninhibited fling in North America — (Jack Fry)

Sentimental Journey

MONTREAL (CP) — Seventy-eight Canadian parents, all over 70, are in The Netherlands to visit the war graves of their sons who fell in Holland in 1945.

"This is not a melancholy journey," said Norman Shannon of the Dominion Command of the Royal Canadian Legion. "They go with pride."

The pilgrimage was jointly sponsored by the Legion and the Netherlands War Graves Committee which cares for the graves of wartime Canadian casualties in Holland.

Jaycees Winding Up Tourist Blitz

Victoria Jaycees plan a blitz on Vancouver Island ferries this weekend which probably will wind up for this season their survey of the Island tourist industry.

At a Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting this week, Jaycee David Bennett called for 30 to 35 Jaycees to volunteer to interview tourists on ferries this weekend on their preconceptions of the Island and their likes and dislikes while they were here.

For about a month Jaycees and friends who happen to be travelling on the ferries have been questioning travellers. Jaycee president Eric Charman said, however, the Junior Chamber may decide to continue the survey.

Atlas Steel Adds Point At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Oil stocks were buoyant on the strength of take-over rumors but the rest of the market fell sharply.

Canadian Oil followed Wednesday's seven-point jump with a gain of 1/2 to 55. Procter Corporation, holder of a large minority interest in Canadian Oil, rose two points to 69.

In other oil issues, Canadian Husky rose 1/2 to 7 1/2 in heavy trading and Central - Del Rio gained 15 cents to 86.90.

Alcan, however, fell 1/2 to 110 1/2. Price at 11 1/2 and Dominion Bridge at 15 each lost 1/2.

Consolidated Paper rose 1/2 to 37 1/2 among papers and Atlas Steel rose a point to 35 1/2 in heavy trading.

In mines, Mount Pleasant fell 1/2 to $1.98. In golds, Hollinger added 1/2 to 19 1/2.

United Keno Rises

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Oil again dominated industrial trading.

On a volume topping 77,000 shares, the stock touched a record 55 1/2 before easing to 55.

Meanwhile, the market was generally weaker, with banks setting the prevailing tone. All five listed issues declined, with the sharpest hit being Nova Scotia, down one point.

Losses of a point or more went to Algoma Steel, Aluminium and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Base metals, which dropped early in the day to their lowest level this year, revived slightly and closed fractionally lower.

Laborer declined 1/2 to a 19 1/2 low of 19 and International Nickel slipped 1/2 to 10 1/2. United Keno fell 1/2 to 10 1/2, its best price this year.

Among western oils, Calgary and Edmonton declined 1/2, while Great Plains Development rose 1/2 to 10 1/2 and Hudson's Bay 1/2 to 10 1/2.

Aluminums Weaken

NEW YORK (AP) — A feeble stock market rally failed to take hold and the list sank again under a wave of late selling.

It was the fourth sharp decline in the last five sessions but the smallest.

Brokers said Wall Street was not affected much by the news background.

Huskers noted that the current series of sharp, stabilizing declines, punctuated by feeble rallies, is uncomfortably reminiscent of the market's performance in May just prior to the Black Monday plunge of May 28.

The spot news about business, however, continued mixed. It included a rise in steel sales and scheduled auto output, a drop in rail loadings, and a cut in prices for aluminum sheet by Alcoa.

Alcan and Aluminium Ltd. lost 1/2 each while Reynolds Metals was heavily traded and dropped 2 1/2.

The autos gave up a little ground, Ford and Buick-Buick dropped 1/2, General Motors and Chrysler 1/2 each, while American Motors closed unchanged.

MacMillan Rallies

VANCOUVER — MacMillan rallied a quarter to 51 1/2, but Aluminium and Trans-Canada weakened.

Mines were mixed to lower with Inland down at 51 1/2, Grandview at 50 and Cowiham at 49.

Pacific rallied to 54 among oils and there was some interest in Vinter at 37.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL — Bond prices were generally firmer on new buying from the U.S. Several recent issues were in demand with bids rising up to 1/2. The new government 5 1/2% of 1969 were stronger at par bid.

U.S. Extends Dollar Aid

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States have agreed to extend a $250,000,000 currency swap, part of American financial aid to bolster the Canadian dollar exchange rate.

A treasury official said Thursday.

Originally made for a three-month period, the swap is being extended for another three months, the official said.

Under the arrangement, the U.S. federal reserve provided Canada with $250,000,000 in U.S. currency in exchange for a similar amount of Canadian currency.

Interest Rate Down

The average yield on the 91-day treasury bill fell to 4 1/2% from 4 3/4% last week, a drop of 1/4 per cent from the 4 3/4% peak, the government said last week.

CHICAGO (AP) —

After sinking again to season low levels in early dealings, wheat futures reversed their trend of the past several days and posted small gains at times.

Brokers said the demand appeared to be rather sporadic, however, and bore no signs of a sustained rally. The recovery, they added, was on speculation buying toward reinstatement of long positions.

Garden Notes

Sooty, Sooty Dew

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRMS

I don't think I could call a plum tree a particularly misty subject, and providing you don't try to grow them in a low-lying, soggy part of the garden, very little coddling is ever required. However, it isn't a bad idea to look them over closely about this time of the year, for there are a couple of rather peculiar disorders which can be recognized now.

Toward the end of the growing season, the foliage on a plum tree will sometimes assume a dirty and woe-begone appearance, looking as if the leaves had been dusted with soot. This dirty deposit isn't only on the leaves and twigs, either, for plants and grass under the trees will be bespattered as well. The affected leaves feel sticky to the touch, and the "soot" will brush off when rubbed with the finger.

The cause of all this is interesting. At some stage during the summer the tree has suffered an infestation of aphids which may or may not have been severe enough to produce the typical symptoms of curled and crumpled foliage. This aphid exudes a secretion known as "honey dew," sticky and sweet, which is spread by the rain, forming a thin film all over the leaf surfaces.

Now enters the villain of the plot, the infecting spores of a fungus called Sooty Mould, blown in on the wind. The film of honey dew is an ideal propagating medium for this fungus, which spreads like wildfire, and soon the whole tree has taken on a dirty and disreputable appearance.

Fortunately, this trouble seldom impairs the health of the tree seriously, and in any case, there isn't much you can do to kill off the sooty mould fungus. The proper control is to rake up and burn the leaves, and make sure the aphids don't get a foothold on the tree next year. A midwinter spray with any good ovicide to kill off aphid eggs is a good idea, but the main thing is to watch the leaves closely through the growing season, and hit them with a spray whenever aphids are noticed.

Another interesting end-of-season disorder is the plum rust disease, another fungus which causes small yellow angular blotches on the upper surface of the leaves, which later turn brown. The under surface is covered with dark rusty brown spores occurring in groups corresponding with the position of the yellow marks on the upper surface.

Where did the rust spores come from? Believe it or not, they spent the winter last year on the leaves of anemone plants, moving from the anemones to the plum tree along about the middle of last June. When the plum tree leaves fall, the spores will shift again to their winter quarters on the anemones.

This "alternative host" idea is fairly common in nature, particularly with parasitic fungi and with some aphids. Wheat rust, probably Canada's most serious economic plant disease, must spend half of its life cycle on a barberry bush. A rust disease of the white pine can only exist in the presence of currant bushes. I have been running across an increasing number of cases where a mountain ash tree has been selected as the alternate host for the juniper rust, although any other member of the apple family would do to keep this fungus alive.

In the case of the plum-anemone rust, the thing to do is to break up this happy partnership by giving the anemones the old heave-ho to a spot as far removed from the plum tree as possible. Spray the trees with lime sulphur after the fruit is harvested but before leaf fall, and again next year when the fruit is about half size.

Famed Biologist's Dramatic Indictment

Pest Sprays Menace Man

By JOHN BARBOUR

Man's attempts to rid himself of pests may be poisoning the earth, its creatures and himself.

Famous biologist Rachel Carson's new book The Silent Spring is a dramatic indictment of the indiscriminate, widespread use of pesticides.

It warns of the danger in tampering with the balance of nature, and argues strongly for biological controls rather than massive use of chemicals.

Says Miss Carson: "The crusade to create a chemically sterile, insect-free world seems to have engendered a fanatic zeal on the part of many specialists and most of the so-called control agencies. On every hand there is evidence that those engaged in spraying operations exercise a ruthless power."

Many of the most efficient chemicals now available to control pests are synthetics such as heptachlor, dieldrin, DDT and chlordane—subtle, man-made combinations of carbon and chlorine atoms, joined in a partnership of death.

Miss Carson says that since the mid-1940s more than 200 basic chemicals have been created to kill insects, weeds, rodents and other pests.

Today, to control insects and animal pests, the United States alone makes some $300,000,000 worth of chemicals a year. Crops are sprayed from the ground and the air.

Homeowners have their own arsenal of weapons against everything from beetles to crab grass.

"For the first time in the history of the world, every human being now is subject to contact with dangerous chemicals, from the moment of conception until death," writes Miss Carson.

"In the less than two decades of their use, the synthetic pesticides have been so thoroughly distributed throughout the animal and inanimate world that they occur virtually everywhere...

"They have been found in fish in remote mountain lakes, in earthworms burrowing in soil, in eggs of birds—in man himself. They occur in the mother's milk and probably in the tissues of the unborn child."

Miss Carson's angry chronicle of death tells of birds stricken after eating DDT-laden earthworms, of a doctor who collapsed with extensive nerve damage after a year of using chemicals on his garden.

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

The All-or-Nothing Man

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Jayne Mansfield has been calling Mickey Hargitay to take her out on some dates—and that is always good for publicity with divorcing couples. To date the muscular Mickey, an all-or-nothing man if ever I saw one, has replied firmly—"All or nothing."

Frank Sinatra won't tell anyone why he went into the hospital for those tests. He says it's his own business. Perhaps it is.

It's a lot of money, but Debbie Reynolds doesn't need ment for the same sad reason.

Doris Day and Marty Melcher paid out $75,000 for their waterfront home at Lake Arrowhead. Plus a modern power boat.

Anne Marie Albrecht has been spending time on Claudio Guzman's boat at Balboa.

Are Dan Dailey and long-time romance Camille Williams married?

It's a lot of money, but Debbie Reynolds doesn't need it what with all the money she makes on her movies and husband Harry Karl being a millionaire. So I wonder why she signed to work at Las Vegas during the Christmas holidays.

Lee Remick was flooded with questions by Irish reporters about the late Marilyn Monroe when she arrived in Ireland for The Running Man. Lee refused to answer. If you recall, Lee was chosen to replace Marilyn in Something's Got to Give. What a strangely empty place Hollywood is without Marilyn.

Man, Mr. Carol Reed really goes for "Man" in his titles. The Running Man is his fifth "man." Earlier were Old Man Out, The Third Man, The Man Between and Man in Havana.

Robert Stack will end up with a cool $2,000,000 when all the cash is in from the sale of The Untouchables. Bob has started his fourth year and may go to five with the series. He managed to squeeze in one movie this summer, The Caretakers. How he did it so rugged a schedule I wouldn't be knowing.

Attention, Hollywood starlets: Prince Mahmoud Pahlavi, brother of the Shah of Iran, is coming in Hollywood in October. I believe he is marriage material.

From Al Capone to Al Capone. Red Steagor, who parlayed his portrayal of gangster Capone into a movie fortune, is now planning a filmed biography of the late scientist, Albert Einstein. That's going as far from one pole in another as you can get. But then, Rod is so versatile!

Space Scientist Escapes to Sea

An aerospace scientist has put to sea in search of a new perspective on science, arms and the space race.

The 45-foot cutter Success is in search of adventure and an escape for Dr. Alex Moncrieff, Yeatsia, former director of the Guggenheim Research Laboratory in Altadena, California.

"I've got to get away from this space age merry-go-round for a while," he said. "I've got to spend some time with the open sea and the open sky; where there aren't any telephones or telegrams and the only 'top priority' is the next meal from the galley."

"I want to look at all this atom-space business from a distant perspective. I want to try and see where science is taking the human race."

Dr. Yeatsia is taking his family with him. For the four Yeats children it will be a year of school away from school. Each one has a learning project to work on in addition to regular school work. With Mrs. Yeats as the teacher. She is a research biologist.

The children are Colin, 6; Sandra, 5; Celia, 3; and Diana, 11. If all goes according to plan, the Success will arrive in Miami just about a year from now. The cruise will cover 15,000 miles.

"It's going to be tough," said Yeats. "Tough to sell the ship and go back to the old rat race when the trip is over."

SIU 'Moved In' on Rivals

OTTAWA (CP) — The Norris shipping inquiry was told Thursday about a bid by the Seafarers International Union of Canada to move in on the membership of a rival union of deck officers.

Three mates from ships owned or operated by companies introduced declarations in which the other mates on the pines headed by Norman J. Reoch told Mr. Justice T. G. Norris that they started the 1961 shipping season under pay rates of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild — only to find their rates cut when the company signed a contract with the SIU.

NOW CIVIL SERVANT
The three men — Hector La Rose, formerly third mate on the Hillside, now an Ottawa civil servant; Clifford Campbell, a mate on the Pinedale last year, and Harry Hilliard, a mate on the Elmndale — testified that the SIU tried to pressure them into breaking with the guild and signing up with the seafarers union.

They said they were told by SIU officials that if they didn't sign with the SIU they would be taken off their ships. Maurice Wright, lawyer for the Canadian Labor Congress, three ships also endorsed the Merchant Service Guild as their bargaining agent.

Toll in B.C. 125 Children
VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Safety Council says 125 children in the province have died in the last eight months, as a result of fires, motor vehicles, drowning, poisoning, falls, firearms and other miscellaneous accidents.

CBC Woes Blank Out Diefenbaker
OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC says it cancelled a radio broadcast of Thursday morning's election of a Commons Speaker because of a fault in its connection with the amplifying system in the chamber.

A spokesman said that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's voice came through so faintly as he began his speech nominating Marcel Lambert of Edmonton West for the post that the program was called off and programming was returned to the CBC studio.

He said that none of the speeches of party leaders at the morning session was carried.

Brigadier Sees Militia As a 'Family Tradition'
"A family tradition" is the way Brig. George Henderson, of Burlington, Ont., national president of the Canadian Infantry Association, likes to think of the militia.

In Victoria for the three-day annual conference of the association, Brig. Henderson is one of more than 50 delegates from across Canada.

"In my family we had four company sergeant-majors," he said. "I've been in the Canadian army for 37 years, ever since I was 15."

Purpose of the conference is "basically to discuss the common problems of the militia," the Brigadier said.

Lt.-Col. John Bond, 1st Battalion, North Saskatchewan Regiment, Prince Albert, Sask., put it this way: "We are discussing the role of the militia

Town Declares War On Federal Austerity

PLESSISVILLE, Que. (CP) — The war between federal austerity and the Plessisville water department is on.

The public works department said the post office here uses only $63 worth of water a year and it doesn't plan to go on paying a fixed annual rate of $200.

Plessisville replied that, if steps are not taken to pay the bill within 10 days, water services will be cut off.

Class-Vote Lowest In Canada
WASHINGTON (CP) — Sociologist Robert R. Alford of Wisconsin University says Canadian voters tend to align themselves in religious and regional groups rather than in social classes.

Analyzing voting habits in Canada, Britain, United States and Australia, Alford suggested that while there are signs of a breakdown of "extreme provincialism" characterizing Canadian politics, class - voting in Canada since 1943 "has been consistently lower than in any of the other three countries."

By class-voting, Alford said he meant voter groups aligned by earnings, occupations and education rather than religion or geographic location.

"In Canada, non-class factors assume a paramount role," he told the American Political Science Association. "Economic and cultural heterogeneity and the political veto power exercised by the French - Catholic cultural 'island' of Quebec are probably the major factors reducing class alignments around the parties."

Of the four countries, Britain was found to have the highest level of class-voting.

Threat Calls Mean Jail
Douglas White, 31, of 1022 Princess drew a three-month sentence in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday for obstructing justice.

The court ruled that, in trying to dissuade a woman from testifying in a forgery case through threats, White was guilty.

White threatened Mrs. Dorothy Eng, 3267 Wicklow, who is expected to be a witness in a forgery case to be heard in Assize Court.

Magistrate William Ostler said White's telephone calls to the woman were "not only a criminal act, but a very stupid act."

Arabs Rap U.S. Deal

CAIRO (AP)—The Egyptian newspaper Al Massara has criticized the U.S. for agreeing to supply Israel with short range anti-aircraft missiles, saying: "This strange stand by the U.S. government contributes toward an increase in tension in this area."

Drew Praises Mercy Ship

SHANNON, Ireland (CP-Reuters)—Canada's high commissioner in Britain, George Drew, Thursday delivered a message of congratulations to the aircraft carrier Bonaventure for its part in the rescue operation that followed the ditching of an American airliner Sunday.

Drew flew by helicopter to the carrier, standing off Shannon while another helicopter took ashore four injured survivors of the plane crash.

He returned here three hours later and said he had delivered the message from Prime Minister Diefenbaker to the Bonaventure's crew. A message of congratulation was also sent to other Canadian vessels that took part in the operation.

Drew related two of the survivors, U.S. Army Maj. and Mrs. Carl Richard Elander of West Point, N.Y., had "won the hearts of everybody" on the carrier through their spirit.

National Rail Strike Threatens England

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan arranged urgent talks with senior cabinet ministers to discuss a one-day national rail strike set for next Wednesday.

Emergencies of this kind are the special concern of a cabinet committee headed by Home Secretary Henry Brooke.

DAY OFF

Macmillan arranged to confer with Brooke, Transport Minister Ernest Marples and Labor Minister John Hare.

Thousands of London workers already have been given Wednesday off in anticipation of the one-day rail and subway walkout and a possible sympathy bus strike.

TRAFFIC JAM

Traffic jams are expected to bring private car traffic to a virtual halt. Some firms have reserved hotel rooms Tuesday night for key executives.

'Unknown Man Saved My Life'

SHANNON, Ireland (AP)—Four more survivors from a ditched American airliner—were a cheerful, pretty blonde with a spine fracture—were brought ashore by helicopter Thursday.

The four, together with the bodies of 12 persons who died in the Atlantic disaster Sunday, came from the Canadian aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

Two helicopters flew in to lay to and from the Bonaventure as she lay 36 miles from Shannon airport in the mouth of the Shannon River.

Those brought ashore included U.S. Maj. Carl R. (Dick) Elander of Seattle, Wash., and his wife, Lois, Mrs. Elander, 31, had a broken arm and dislocated shoulder in addition to her spinal injury, but she smiled gamely as she told interviewers how she survived the ditching.

'PULLED ME UP'

"An unknown man reached out his arm and pulled me into a life raft just as I felt I was going under," she said.

"There were 32 people crowded into a raft built for 25, most of them big heavy men. We were stacked three deep with me underneath, and I could not move my legs or arms."

"I kept calling out Dick, Dick, and then I heard him answer—just in time. The raft was filling with water, with my face pressing into it. Suddenly Dick reached out, got hold of my head and supported it above the water. Except for that, I would undoubtedly have died."

When NOT To Get Married

Barbara Ann

Top Figure Skater Owns Beauty Salon

By Canadian Press

Mrs. Tom V. King of Chicago surveyed her beehive - styled platinum blonde hairdo in a wall-length mirror and casually mentioned that "sometimes I'm brunette or brown and I've even tried to be a redhead — that's Tom's favorite color, you know — but he didn't like it on me so I don't use red any more."

The patented manner she has had since childhood of looking at the world in wide-eyed amazement identified her as Barbara Ann Scott. Her one-time high - pitched voice has been modulated to a rich tone.

B.A. was in Toronto to appear as a mystery guest on a television panel show. As an 18-year-old in 1948 she had dazzled the figure - skating world with footwork to win the women's Olympic title for Canada. Her home town, Ottawa, and the rest of the country went wild over her.

Before that gold-medal performance, she had won every title in the book from Canadian and North American singles to the European and world championships.

She loved every minute of it. But now, it's all behind her. She hasn't skated in seven years.

Now, she has two careers. She makes daily trips to her beauty salon in suburban Glenview where she has a staff of 25, and keeps house for her husband. He was her press agent when she was a pro in the Arthur Wirtz Hollywood Ice Revue and now is assistant general manager of the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

The 25th opening session today will be no exception. Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the Governor-General, plans to wear a period-style gown of turquoise slipper satin and silver accessories.

Mrs. John Diefenbaker, wife of the prime minister, has chosen a sapphire blue velvet gown with a fitted bodice and a slightly flared skirt which she will wear with white fox furs.

Mrs. Lester B. Pearson, wife of the Opposition leader, has chosen a gold and black brocade gown on slim lines with a side drape and gold accessories.

The wives of members are among the guests in the oak-paneled Senate chamber during the formal ceremony.

Women Add Glitter

Leaving the Church of St. George the Martyr are Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Slater, following their early September marriage. The bride is the former Francine Potter, daughter of Mr. and

Mrs. Alfred Potter, Loretta Drive. The groom is the son of Mrs. Anne Slater, Shore Acre Road, Sidney, and the late Mr. Jonathan Slater.—(Chevrans)

Mr. and Mrs. Heal Wed in Vancouver

Louise Marion Lindquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo A. Lindquist of Roseland B.C. was recently married to Mr. David Albert Heal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred A. Heal, Topp Avenue, Victoria, in a ceremony in Dunbar Heights Baptist Church, Vancouver, Soloist was Miss Pat Terry of Victoria. Rev. Donald Reed officiated.

The bride chose a gown of white lace and taffeta, the bodice was styled with a square, scalloped neckline highlighted with iridescent sequins. The floor-length skirt of tulle featured panels at the front and back. Something old and borrowed was her double tulle fingertip veil. Her bouquet was tallman roses.

Miss Mavis Burden, maid of honor, Miss Blanche Burden, bridesmaid and Miss Carolyn Grace Heal, the groom's sister from Victoria, junior bridesmaid, were identically gowned in bronze, champagne and gold-toned sheaths of peau de soie.

Headpieces were beige tulle bows and bouquets were bronze and gold chrysanthemums and wheat.

Mr. Byron Heal was best man for his brother and Mr. Jack Lindquist and Mr. Russell Thompson ushered guests. Bronze and gold streamers decorated the church hall for the reception. An ornament from the bride's mother's wedding cake topped the cake which was flanked by white tapers. Mrs. Lindquist and Miss Helen Erickson were among those pouring.

Leaving on a brief honeymoon, the bride changed to a cherry red three-piece knit wool suit with black accessories. The couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Pirouetting?

Hates Male Models

LONDON (CP)—The recent spurt of men's fashion shows here draws a bitter comment from one woman journalist on the booming profession of the male model.

Snorts Dee Wells, columnist in The Daily Herald: "If that's what men have come to, then no wonder we don't get to the moon."

"Are there no more dams to be bust? No more frontiers to push back?"

Modelling dressing gowns and cotton bkinis is no job for a man, in Miss Wells' view.

"Can so many able-looking young men really have no loftier aim than to pirouette in their pastel pants before a lot of hawked-eyed press ladies?"

There now are more than 100 full-time male models in London.

Audiences Wild About Her— She's Wild About Husband

Bolshoi Star Loses Self
On Stage

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—She's the star of the Bolshoi Ballet and audiences go wild over her.

Her private life makes her just as happy. Married to a talented young composer for five years, she can't imagine what could make them quarrel.

What's there left for her to wish for?

Maya Plisetskaya fluttered her hands and replied promptly through an interpreter.

She wants to dance Giselle, considered the Hamlet of the ballet.

And she wants something new, something that's never been performed before, created for her.

Undoubtedly the first will happen in time; and why can't her husband, Rodion Shchedrin, bring about the second?

"My husband can write excellent music, but I cannot find a libretto."

NOT PARTNERS

She explained their happy relationship: "If he were a partner, for instance, there would always be something such as, he didn't hold me up properly. This way—he composes and I dance—we complement each other."

They're together most of the Maya Plisetskaya, star of the Bolshoi Ballet, poses "all eyes" for her husband, Rodion Shchedrin, in their hotel in New York. Maya has been married to Shchedrin, a talented young composer, for five years and she can't imagine what could make them quarrel. They're together most of the time. In Russia he's with her in the theatre or at their home outside Moscow and came to the United States with the ballet company which is going on a cross-country tour. (AP Wirephoto) time. In Russia he's with her in the theatre or at their home outside Moscow. Here in New York, where the ballet company appeared before starting a cross-country tour, the couple can be found most late afternoons sitting unnoticed in their hotel bar, sharing a beer.

But if the ballerina were to need more company, she has plenty of family around. Her two brothers are dancers in the company and her uncle is the famous choreographer and ballet master Anatol Mestser. She comes from a well-known theatrical family and her mother, a motion picture actress, is still active in Moscow.

Maya Plisetskaya, who's been dancing since she was nine, dazzles audiences with regal beauty, incredible grace and dramatic intensity. But away from the stage she has a placid, well-scrubbed look that bears out her reputation for being one of the most even-tempered in the business.

LOOKS YOUNGER

Although she's in her mid-30s and is witty in her native language, she looked for all the world like a good-natured young girl who might find the big city a little fast for her.

Then Plisetskaya the great artist began to talk:

"After a highly emotional performance I don't come out whole. A piece of me stays on the stage forever, I lose a part of myself each time."

Before a ballet she goes through the whole performance in her head while she's resting in bed.

"After an important performance I always have insomnia. Again and again I see the ballet in my head and I can't sleep until it works itself out of my system."

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I drive my husband to work every morning because I like to have the car during the day. Ludvig doesn't enjoy driving so I handle the wheel. When we see someone from his office waiting for a bus we always stop. The passenger gets in the back.

Yesterday Ludvig saw the bus secretary waiting for a bus. He looks up to her because she's close to the bus. He asked me to stop, which I promptly did. Then he said, "I'll drive, dear, you hop in back so Miss Swanson can sit up here in front."

I was plenty burned up about this but I controlled my temper until Ludvig got home that evening. Then I let him have it. He says a wife should know her place and when she doesn't a husband ought to remind her. In his opinion I should have offered to sit in the back without being told. What about this?—DE-MOTED.

Dear Demoted: Perhaps my table of organization isn't what it should be, but it seems to me that a wife outranks the boss secretary.

Remind Ludvig that a woman's place is beside her husband—for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health, till death does them part! (That ought to settle his hash.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl who is 13 years old. I don't know whether my problem is my 10-year-old sister, or my mother.

Mother says Anita is too young to accept any responsibility so I have to do the dishes, make bath water and pick up after her. If Anita gets into mischief it's my fault because I am older and should keep an eye on her. I don't get any allowance because Anita is too young to handle money and my mother doesn't want to show any favoritism. We both have to go to bed at the same time because Mother says Anita will feel inferior if I get special privileges.

I tried to talk this problem over with my father but he says he's got all he can do to support the family and he isn't going to interfere with my mother's job of raising the kids.

Please say something.—UNLUCKY 13.

Dear Unlucky 13: Your mother is trying to be fair to both you and your sister, and as a result she isn't being fair to either of you.

Anita should be making her own bed, picking up after her-

Bride Designs Her Own Gown

At a recent evening ceremony in All Saints Church, View Royal, Elizabeth Suzanne Reynolds became the bride of Mr. Edward Polinsky. Venerable Archdeacon J. W. Forth officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Reynolds and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Polinsky all of Victoria. The church was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The bride's gown, designed and sewn by herself, was of white peau de soie fashioned with floor-length bell skirt. The lace bodice had three-quarter length sleeves and rounded neckline enhanced with flower lace appliques outlined in silver beads. A crown of seed pearls held her elbow-length veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of yellow rosebuds and miniature carnations.

Miss Bonnie McRae of Vancouver was maid of honor and Miss Lynn Taylor bridesmaid in dresses of yellow crystal charm draped with full skirts and styled necklines. Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums were in their bouquets and headpieces.

Mr. Jack Bates was best man and Paul Reynolds, the bride's brother, and Dave Ferguson were ushers.

The autumnal color scheme of bronze and yellow was carried out at the reception held at Four Mile House. Mr. H. J. Burrough proposed the toast to the bride and she and her husband cut the traditional three-tiered wedding cake.

For a honeymoon trip to southern California, the new Mrs. Polinsky donned a coral worsted suit with black accessories and coral floral whimsy. The couple will make their home at 722 Donovan Avenue.

Preparing for the Sons of Scotland Ladies' Auxiliary bazaar are left, Mrs. A. M. Wilson, Mrs. Jim Gourlay and Mrs. Jim Weir, tea convener. Bazaar is to be held on Saturday, Oct. 6, from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Knights of Pythias Hall. There will be stalls of home cooking, candy, aprons, harvest goods and, of course, dolls and knit wear. Proceeds go to various charities.

Faulks-Luff

Pink and White Wedding Theme

Gladiolus and snapdragons in shades of pink and white decorated St. John's Anglican Church for the candlelit ceremony that united Beverly Doreen Luff and Mr. Richard M. Faulks. Rev. Stewart Faulks of St. John's Anglican Church, South Burnaby, and Rev. Canon George Biddle heard the marriage vows. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Luff, Forrester Street and Mrs. S. Faulks, Werra Road and the late Mr. Faulks.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white nylon organza over taffeta and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of gardenias, pink roses, white heather and stephanotis. Lace applique topped her floor-length gown which featured a scooped neckline and slight train. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a pearl crown and she wore a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings.

For something old she wore her maternal grandmother's wrist watch and a pearl sunburst pin of the groom's mother. Something borrowed was her mother's diamond ring.

Mrs. William Edlund, matron of honor, Miss Bonnie Halverson, both cousins of the bride, and Miss Shirley Humphries, were identically gowned in rapture pink organza over taffeta. They were toning floral whimsies and carried white gladiolus and heather with pink rosebuds. Their jewelry was a pearl necklace and earrings.

With its "grow-in" workability, weather resistance and lasting good looks, "Keystone" clear Western Red Cedar Siding has long been recognized as the standard of quality home construction.  It has a distinctive "shadow line" which enhances any architectural style in any setting, and is used to create a variety of interesting decorative effects on indoor surfaces as well as exterior.  DURABILITY Western Red Cedar is one of the most durable species known. It's heartwood is highly resistant to decay and can be counted on for long and worthy service when conditions favoring decay prevail.  5 GRADES TO CHOOSE FROM!  "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING  WHAT IS FOREST SIDING? Made of dry 1 1/2" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.  APPEARANCE? For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2 inch in 6-inch widths to 4 inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.  WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES? "FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material for the INSULATION stand point.  WHEN YOU BUY SPECIFY "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING or WESTERN RED CEDAR BEVEL SIDING  BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST PRODUCTS LTD. Victoria Sawmill Division Mr. Hemlock and Cedar Lumber Products Plywood Cedar Shakes PRES-TO-LOGS Phone EV 4-3331 371 Gorge Road E.	Western RED Cedar Bevel SIDING  "FOREST" CEDAR SIDING  "RANCH" PANEL" SIDING  Made by  BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST PRODUCTS LTD.  BELOW ARE LISTED SOME OF OUR DEALERS:  BUILDERS SASH &amp; DOOR Limited 483 Burnside  MITCHELL &amp; ANDERSON LUMBER CO. ## U.S. Army Force Plans Expansion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Army has been given approval to increase its elite anti-guerrilla forces over the next five years, Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell Gilpatric said yesterday.

Gilpatric told a press conference the increase will bring these fighters to a total of 6,500 — a one-third increase over the present force.

He denied unofficial reports that the army had been authorized to raise the level of its

'Impudent' Man Jailed for Fraud

A "systematic scheme to defraud" several city banks has netted Neil G. Dalgety, 827 Princess, concurrent prison terms of 15 months on 13 charges of uttering forged cheques and of false pretences.

"I'm making arrangements to make restitution," he told Magistrate William Ostler when he appeared for sentence in city police court yesterday. CAREFULLY PLANNED

"That's the least you could do," replied the magistrate. "None of these offences... was a spontaneous act. The whole thing was carefully planned and executed scheme to defraud these banks systematically over a period of time."

"You also had the effrontery to cash two more of these bad cheques while you were on bail... one can hardly envisage more impudent conduct," continued the magistrate.

FICTITIOUS ACCOUNT
Dalgety obtained a total of $1,509 from two banks and several supermarkets. He opened accounts at the main branch of the Bank of Montreal and the Douglas and Pandora branch of the Royal Bank with 10 forged cheques for a total of $1,270. The cheques were drawn on a fictitious account with a Samla, Ont., branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

He also used worthless cheques to obtain groceries from supermarkets.

War on Dope JFK Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said yesterday there is need for "much more comprehensive action" to cope with the abuse of narcotics.

He told the first White House conference on drug abuse he must pool "our information and experience in an orderly, vigorous and direct attack can be undertaken on all levels: local, state, federal and international."

Independence

OTTAWA (CP)—The government pledged itself Thursday to seek an agreement with the provinces under which the last remaining obstacle to full Canadian independence within the Commonwealth would be removed.

The throne speech said the government will put forward a proposal for the "repatriation" of the British North America Act.

"Repatriation," a word coined by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, would mean that future constitutional amendments would not require the approval of the British Parliament, as has been the case since 1867.

Farms

OTTAWA (CP)—A national conference on farm training this autumn was announced Thursday in the speech from the throne. Other plans:

Steps will be taken to build up feed storage reserves in British Columbia and Eastern Canada to meet the "increasing importance" of livestock.

As forecast, the farm credit corporation will have its funds enlarged and loan flexibility increased. It lends about $75,000,000 a year now.

Funds will be sought from Parliament for implementing the first federal-provincial projects under the Rural Rehabilitation and Development Act (ARDA). The sum of $50,000,000 has been earmarked federally for the first three years.

Master contracts have been worked out with the 10 provinces. Specific cost-sharing projects under these contracts are prepared or are being prepared in land reclamation, alternate land use and community development of tourism, secondary industry and recreation.

Closure

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will be asked again at this session to abolish the controversial closure rule, the throne speech reported Thursday.

Closure is a rule under which a Commons debate can be shut off at a specified time. It requires advance notice and majority house approval.

What the Ottawa Government Plans

Rail Rates

OTTAWA (CP)—The government said it plans to ask Parliament to pass new transportation legislation aimed at ending across-the-board freight rate increases.

Without giving any details, the speech from the throne said measures will be introduced in the Commons "to give effect to recommendations of the royal commission on transportation."

"These changes are intended to remove the need for general horizontal freight rate increases which have borne so heavily in the past upon certain areas and groups of producers," it said.

Efficiency

OTTAWA (CP)—Notice that the government intends to take action on some proposals of the Glasco royal commission on government organization was served in the speech.

"Steps will be taken to improve further the efficiency of government operations," the speech forecast. It added that the Glasco commission's report "will be helpful in achieving this improvement of administration while maintaining the high status of the Canadian public service."

The initial Glasco report—with four main themes—was released three weeks ago.

Research

OTTAWA (CP)—A tax-incentive program to stimulate industrial research in Canada will be placed before the first session of the 26th Parliament.

The program, announced in the last budget of the previous Parliament, was proposed by the government following criticism of the relatively small amount of research done in Canada, especially by foreign-controlled subsidiaries.

The throne speech said Thursday that the government intends to press forward in co-operation with Canadian industry to secure a greater and more rapid application of science to industrial production.

Medicine

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will be asked to establish a national medical research council to promote and assist medical research in Canada.

The new council, proposed in the throne speech read at the opening of Parliament Thursday, will assume duties now performed by the Medical Research Council which functions under the administration of the National Research Council.

Flag

OTTAWA (CP)—Invitations are likely to be sent within two weeks to the provinces to discuss a national flag and anthem at a Dominion-provincial conference.

The speech from the throne read at the opening of Parliament Thursday said: "As another means of making manifest Canadian identity, my government will invite the provinces to a conference for consultation regarding the choice of a national flag and other national symbols."

Publications

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to implement some of the recommendations of the royal commission on publications but gave no hint in the throne speech Thursday of which ones or the extent to which the recommendations would be accepted.

"You will be requested to enact measures to give effect, with modifications, to certain of the recommendations of the royal commission on publications," the speech said.

Changes Urged By U.S. Church

NEW YORK (UPI)—A committee of the United Presbyterian Church has recommended that churches be taxed for profits on unrelated businesses they own. The committee also recommended ministerial candidates and ordained clergymen—now automatically deferred—claim exemption from military service "only on grounds of conscientious objection."

Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—The government had promised to take action on contributory old age pensions and portability of retirement pensions when the appropriate provinces have done so.

The speech from the throne read at the opening of Parliament repeated the government's position that introduction of a national system of contributory old age pensions with disability and survivor benefits requires an amendment to the British North America Act.

Indians

OTTAWA (CP)—Establishment of an Indian claims commission was forecast Thursday in the speech from the throne opening Parliament.

The commission would investigate claims by Indian tribes and bands that some of their treaty rights have been abrogated, or restricted, or make recommendations for settlement.

An Indian claims commission was the first promise of Prime Minister Diefenbaker in this year's election campaign. It was

Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—"Legislation respecting the Senate" was forecast in the throne speech at the opening of Parliament Thursday with a possible indication it may differ from the Senate bill which was introduced in the last Parliament but died on the order paper at dissolution.

Drugs

OTTAWA (CP)—The thalidomide tragedy cast its shadow over Parliament with the announcement that changes will be proposed to make control over distribution and sale of drugs in Canada more effective. Informants said the amendments will make it an offence to sell certain kinds of drugs which could be designated by regulations. They may also include provisions to tighten up the law regarding the qualifications of persons to whom drugs still in the testing stage are distributed.

Ridings

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to reintroduce in Parliament its proposal for an independent commission to handle redistribution of parliamentary seats.

The previous bill would have established a five-member commission to include the chief electoral officer and at least two superior court judges.

Finance

OTTAWA (CP)—No large-scale loosening in the terms of government lending to developing Canadian industries is expected from a planned change in the Crown-owned Industrial Development Bank.

A change to "enlarge still further" the bank's role in national development was forecast.

But an informant said the move will mainly involve organizational changes in the bank.

Jobless

OTTAWA (CP)—A four-man committee formed 14 months ago to examine Canada's unemployment insurance system is expected to submit its report "this autumn," the throne speech said.

The committee, headed by Ernest C. Gill, president of the Canada Life Assurance Company of Toronto, was formed with the powers of a royal commission and was ordered to study "the scope, basic principles and provisions" of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

It was formed as the unemployment insurance fund was falling from its December, 1956 peak of more than $300,000,000 down to a record low of $19,851,162, reached last May.

By ED CONGROVE

Judgment has been reserved in the federal income tax department's action against prominent B.C. surgeon and horseman Dr. Lyon Henry Appleby for a total of $126,000 in back taxes.

The amount includes interest on taxes claimed by the government.

The week-long court action, which saw a total of 18 witnesses testify and more than 80 exhibits presented in evidence, was heard by Mr. Justice Jacques DuMoulin of Ottawa in the provincial court house in Victoria.

Both the income tax department and Dr. Appleby are appealing tax appeal board rulings on assessments made against the doctor's earnings over three periods of time dating back 21 years.

Dr. Appleby is appealing assessments for the period of 1941-1945 and 1953-54, while the revenue minister is appealing the board's assessment of the doctor's earnings over the period 1946 to 1952.

Documents and records dating back to 1937 and seized by federal taxation agents, were entered as exhibits in the Exchequer Court hearing.

Testimony included records of monies received by Dr. Appleby from such sources as poker games, horse-racing bets, personal loans, sales of race horses, and bridge winnings.

The doctor, internationally known as a surgeon, is equally famous for his Running Horse Stables and his interests in thoroughbred horses.

The Crown's submission, presented by Vancouver lawyers A. W. Mercer and L. A. Williams, was that the doctor did "willfully or innocently misrepresent" his earnings, thereby filing a false return for the years cited in the submission.

Exhibits included a handwritten record of receipts and a typed copy of the same book, which the Crown contended showed some sums were deleted.

Dr. Appleby testified that he left his bookkeeping in the hands of employees and an office rule was that he did not want to know which patients had paid and which had not so he wouldn't be "embarrassed."

An accountant told the court he later took over the doctor's books and assumed full responsibility for them.

In his closing argument, lawyer John Farris of Vancouver, appearing for Dr. Appleby, said the tax appeal board decision upholding the Crown should be declared void and the decision for the period 1946-1954 appealed by the Crown should be upheld with alterations to the assessment.

The Crown "abandoned" its argument of any suggestion of fraudulent misrepresentation for the period 1949 to 1954, he said.

The issue now is whether the minister can go back 21 years to seek redress for innocent misrepresentation, he added.

"The rules of justice in civil proceedings, where there is allegations of a crime, there is the same onus of proof as in a criminal case," he said.

He said the Crown's contention that there was no evidence of fraud during the period 1949-1954 should be as tended to cover the other two periods, for no evidence of willful misrepresentation had been presented.

Mr. Farris argued that Dr. Appleby would be guilty "not original."

There had been no proof of "submitting false reports or cooking the books."

The doctor had ample time to destroy the original set of records if he had been "frightened" when tax sleuths called at his home to seize his documents. The original record book was examined at that time (1956) and not included in the seizure, said Mr. Farris.

Months later, the same investigators asked for and were given, the original record book, he added.

A man of his reputation and the contribution he has made to modern medicine entitles him to a strong presumption of innocence, said Mr. Farris.

"It is not enough for the Crown to withdraw allegations for part of the years. It should be all the years," said the lawyer.

Monies deposited in the doctor's private bank account, which were not recorded on office records, he said were "admittedly" not taxable, since they came from sources other than his practice.

"If the burden of proof is on the taxpayer, we have met that onus by showing that the method of assessment adopted was incompetent by bringing into tax monies not taxable."

He said recollections of sources of some of the deposits sufficiently established this fact, without calling on Dr. Appleby to "go back as far as 1941."

(Some of these recollections showed $23,000 won in bets, repayment of travelling expenses to attend at various medical centres, monies received when his horses won at race meets, bridge and poker games and the sale of horses.)

He said the argument by the Crown that only a portion of some $60,000 had been accounted for was "absurd and unjust" in that it required the doctor to recall all deposits in his personal account as far back as 1941.

He argued for voiding of the re-assessments on the grounds that the revenue minister, in exercising the power of re-assessment, was acting quasi-judicial powers and therefore must act in accordance with legal principles.

Such re-assessments can only be made after a four-year period if there is misrepresentation or fraud, said Mr. Farris.

The latest negotiations in the protracted dispute follow an Aug. 18 hearing by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

It's Friendly Networks Talking Grey Cup

TORONTO (CP)—The presidents of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the independent CTV television network conferred here this week in a series of meetings on "the problems of the 1962 Grey Cup telecast, as well as football coverage generally."

A joint press released Thursday night by the two networks said that no definite agreement could be reached at these meetings between Alphonse Ouellet of the CBC and CTV's Spencer Caldwell but "the sessions had been friendly and productive ones," and talks would continue.

The latest negotiations in the protracted dispute follow an Aug. 18 hearing by the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Perrault Accuses Diefenbaker Of 'Surrendering' to Bennett

VANCOUVER (UPI)—British Columbia Liberal leader Ray Perrault Thursday charged Prime Minister Diefenbaker with "total and abject surrender" to Premier Bennett on the Columbia River treaty.

Mr. Perrault said Mr. Diefenbaker promised speedy ratification of the Canadian-American agreement in order to win the support of 30 Social Credit members in the House of Commons.

He said the action was taken to provide a temporary respite for the "tottering Conservative government in Ottawa."

The provincial Liberal leader charged that the promise for a speedy ratification of the treaty is "an act of political cynicism."

He said that for months Canadians were as believable that only political expediency has served to break the Conservative government would stand firm the deadlock on the Columbia and not permit long term treaty and the question of power export under any circumstances.

'Yes' Would Help City

By JACK FRY

Saanich ratepayers have less than three months to make a crucial decision on amalgamation with Victoria.

It seemed last night the mid-December referendum will lead to tax increases regardless of how the vote goes.

POINT UP NEEDED

There were suggestions a "yes" vote will spread the city's tax burden to Saanich residents and a "no" vote will point up the need for Saanich to build a new municipal hall.

Saanich council is bitterly divided, with some councillors plumping hard for a new municipal hall and others contending Victoria-Saanich problems can only be solved by united effort.

Only point on which council does agree is that amalgamation must be brought to a head now before any further progress can be made.

Leader of the pro-amalgamation group, Reeve Stanley Murphy, is strongly supported by Coun. Robert Chard and Coun. Hugh Curtis.

MAJORITY BLOCK

Coun. Joseph Casey, Coun. Gregory Cook, Coun. Harold Todd and Coun. Robert Oatler are not personally opposed to amalgamation with Victoria, but do form a majority block of opposition.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said yesterday a typical example of mutual benefit might be use of the new Saanich police-fire headquarters as the operating headquarters for a joint police force and use of a city hall site for future joint administrative purposes.

BETTER COMMUNITY

Here is what Saanich council had to say (Coun. Curtis, busy at the Kinsmen Fall Fair, was not available):

Reeve Murphy: "Business mergers usually occur for financial reasons. These considerations are important in municipal mergers, but such unions should have as their prime goal a better community."

CANT ACCOMPLISH

"This necessitates long-range planned development, zoning, land use control, provision of parks, major roads and services, location of municipal and other administrative centres. Separate governments cannot accomplish this end."

"The question of where the municipal hall will be should not enter into this until after we amalgamate."

WORK OUT TERMS

"If the ratepayers are in favor of amalgamation in December, then we'll work out the terms."

Coun. Casey: "The people in 1954 voted about two-to-one against amalgamation. In a Saanich referendum, I expect a heavy defeat of this referendum."

"I'm not opposed to amalgamation, I'm sticking up for democracy. If the people vote it in, I'm for it 100 per cent."

"It's high time we put it to a test whether we're under a democracy or under a dictatorship. The people don't want only our reeve and two other councillors."

TAKE PLUNGE

Coun. Chard: "Amalgamation is like getting married—you make a decision and go ahead and take the plunge. If you wait until you get a credit report on the bride, it may be too late."

"Although Victoria is no longer a young lady, Saanich would do the right thing by proposing marriage."

QUITE HAPPY

Coun. Oatler: "I haven't heard anything from the people. I take this as an indication they are quite happy with things the way they are."

"I feel (indecision) is definitely holding up progress of the municipality. Council is unable to take action with this spectre of possible amalgamation hanging over our head."

CANT EXPAND

"We've come to the point where we can't expand the way we should because people who want amalgamation are holding up the works."

Nevertheless, he said he will follow the wish of the voters in December.

Coun. Cook: "We've got one firetrap now, we don't want another. That would be going downhill—I want to move to a new municipal hall."

"I was elected to look after the interests of the people of Saanich. I don't think they gave me any mandate to do anything else."

"I can't see any advantage to the people of Saanich in amalgamation, and I think Victoria is angling to spread the tax burden over our area. Victoria should try to stop the decay of the downtown area."

ON THE BANS

Coun. Todd: "I think the referendum will be turned down, on the basis of what people have told me. From our standpoint, amalgamation isn't very attractive."

Mac-Powell's 'Ruthless Policy' Now Turned Against Labor

By ED COAGROVE

B.C. Federation of Labor secretary E. P. O'Neal charged yesterday the "ruthless" policy used to "purge" top-level executives of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. is now being directed toward organized labor.

Here to tie up loose ends on the forthcoming federation convention slated to be held at the Empress Hotel during October, Mr. O'Neal reiterated a promise of full support to the Alberni local of the International Woodworkers of America.

The local has been cited before the Labor Relations Board by Mac-Powell for the recent "wildcat" strike of 48 boom men. The company has applied for permission to prosecute the men.

BACKS RESOLUTION

The federation became involved in the dispute when the IWA regional convention in Vancouver backed a Local 1-35 resolution calling for "full support" of the labor movement in the "war" against Mac-Powell.

The company responded with the statement it was "surprised" the western region of the IWA and the B.C. Federation of Labor would support "illegal work stoppages, knowing the union involved has a signed agreement outlawing such actions."

"The federation is concerned with social justice as well as legal justice," said Mr. O'Neal.

The recent statements by MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. are consistent with the company's policy of attempting to confuse the issue.

"We will support any action that is necessary to instill some sense of social responsibility in the company's actions."

"I believe that organized labor's view of this corporate attitude toward people is shared by many companies.

"Still fresh in our minds is the treatment meted out by Mr. Clyde (chairman of the board J. V. Clyde) and his colleagues to the Foley (Harold and M. J. Foley) and to other top management who disagreed with his viewpoint."

"Organized labor has no intention of sitting idly by while Mr. Clyde and his friends sharpen their knives to put us out of business," he added.

Radio Claims:

Yemen King Killed In Palace Attack

(AP—Reuters)

ADEN—Broadcasts from the feudal Arab kingdom of Yemen Thursday night reported the 35-year-old monarch enthroned last week was besieged in his palace and assassinated by a military faction, and a "free republic" was proclaimed.

The reports said the royal palace at San'a, the capital, was destroyed by artillery fire Wednesday night and the king's body was buried under its debris.

Some doubts were cast on these reports from other sources and the possibility was raised that a rebellious group had seized the radio at San'a without gaining much further immediate power. There appeared to be no doubt, however, that a coup had been carried out.

The rebels have so far not identified themselves but are believed to be led by Soviet-trained army officers.

U.S. Will Appeal Canadian Ruling On Tax Claims

The fundamental issue at stake at the Boston Tea Party was "taxation without representation."

A case with close legal ties to the tea party—which saw a party of "braves" dump British tea into Boston Harbor—will come before the B.C. Court of Appeal in Victoria, Oct. 3.

APPEALS RULING

Appellant is the United States Government.

The U.S. Justice Department is appealing a B.C. Supreme Court ruling that a Canadian court cannot be used as an instrument to collect taxes for a foreign power.

The U.S. justice department is attempting to attach for taxes "substantial" Vancouver real estate holdings of a deceased California businessman.

OWNED BY WIFE

The properties are now owned by his wife, Mrs. Esperanza Harden, who also inherited, under California's community property law, a tax bill of $609,110.

The government obtained a non-contested judgment, for that amount, against Mrs. Harden, then launched suit in B.C. courts to collect from real estate holdings.

The suit was quashed when, on May 26, 1951, lawyer John Farris, acting for Mrs. Harden, applied to the Supreme Court to strike out the writ of summons.

'NO JURISDICTION'

In his judgment, Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean ruled the court had "no jurisdiction at common law to entertain an action for enforcement... of a penal, revenue or public law of a foreign state."

He noted it was a "common tactic" for a person to contest a judgment as a means of minimizing costs.

His judgment also said Mrs. Harden had consented to judgment for a lower sum, but she had no knowledge of the facts of the claim.

FIRST OF KIND

The appeal, which will be argued before the Appeal Court next week, is the first of its kind in Canada.

Mrs. Harden, who is prevented from leaving the United States by a writ of Ne Exeat Republica, will be represented by Jack Giles of Vancouver. J. G. Alley will appear on behalf of the U.S. government.

MR. DON FORSTER

VICTORIA (D.F.)—Today, Don Forster, well-known Canadian clothier and president of Don Forster's Men's Wear (Calgary and Victoria), has opened the completely re-styled men's wear shop in the familiar location of 755 Yates Street, under the canopy.

The wealth of experience in men's wear retailing by Mr. Don Forster and manager Mr. Jim Robertson has culminated in this entirely new and congenial decor, where selection of fine clothing becomes a distinct pleasure.

The young man of Victoria will find that Don Forster's Men's Wear has brought the latest and most desirable styles to suit his tastes and will continue to present the newest in men's fashions.

A very warm invitation is extended to all men of Victoria who are interested in style to come in and look around at 755 Yates Street.

B.C. Firm May Die From Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—An ironwork contractor lost one contract Wednesday and may lose another because his employees are on strike. President H. A. Strubbe of Western Reinforcing Steel said: "We likely will be out of business because of this strike."

The firm holds sub-contracts on building jobs throughout B.C. which have been shut down since 66 members of the Canadian Ironworkers' Union struck last week for higher pay.

Tax Threat Averted

WASHINGTON (CP)—A behind-the-scenes congressional tussle has eliminated the threat of a heavy tax burden on U.S.-controlled mining subsidiaries in Canada.

A private conference of senators and congressmen also gave big steel management a decisive victory over organized labor which had supported stiffer tax proposals on subsidiaries in Canada and elsewhere.

Senator Eugene McCarthy won Senate approval of the measure earlier this month, and disclosed Wednesday night that his so-called McCarthy Amendment was killed as a tax reform bill.

The Minnesota Democrat, waging a battle mainly against U.S. iron ore operations in Labrador as well as other U.S. operations in Canada affecting U.S. factories and jobs, said he might revive the bill next year.

FOREIGN SUBSIDIARIES

His proposal would have forced many U.S. foreign subsidiaries to pay American taxes in the year they earned profits on sales in the U.S., rather than allow them to continue the current practice of paying these taxes only when they repatriate profits to parent companies.

NO TAXES

McCarthy said that under special Canadian concessions, some of these mining subsidiaries don't pay taxes to the Canadian government for at least three years and under depreciation allowances get away without paying taxes in some cases for as long as 10 years. This has attracted a lot of American mining investment in Canada, especially in Quebec.

Sitting on lap of judge who made her parents Canadian citizens is Joanna Mary Beeren, eight months, who was born in Canada. Judge J. B. Clearhue keeps firm grip on little girl whose parents he swore in at a ceremony yesterday.—(W. A. Boucher)

Swear-In Rites

Canadian Baby Sees Parents as Citizens

Twenty-five new Canadians received their citizenship papers in a ceremony at Victoria Courthouse yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Beeren, whose eight-month-old daughter Joanna was born in Canada, and was present at the ceremony, were the first to be sworn in. Mr. Beeren said he was glad he came to Canada from Holland and feels there is more opportunity here than in Europe.

WELCOME

The 25 new citizens were presented with citizenship certificates by Judge J. B. Clearhue and were welcomed by Chamber of Commerce president J. A. Wallace. They were later welcomed at a coffee party, given by the Greater Victoria Citizenship Council.

The new citizens and their original countries are:

Josephus and Antonia Beeren, Holland; Hans Berchold, Switzerland; Mrs. Anne Henkel, Germany; Mrs. Felicidad Virginia Joe, China; Fredrik and Esther Johansen, Norway; Anna Kenzie, Germany; Henri Kuyvenhoven, Holland; Pieter Michielson, Holland; Lars and Solveig Norstrom, Sweden; Sven Payne, Denmark; Erna Sattermo, Norway; Janos Szabo, Hungary; Klaus Tetzlaff, Germany; Jozsef Toth, Hungary; Umberto Trentin, Italy; Imre Ugro, Hungary; Jan and Catharina van der Ven, Holland; Frieda Wald, Switzerland; Jurgen Fiegert, Germany; and Lazzio Szabo, Hungary.

Yachtsmen to Vote

Shoal Harbor Moorage at Issue

By DON GAIN

Plans for a $40,000 moorage development at Shoal Harbor will be presented to Royal Victoria Club senior members for approval or rejection at a special general meeting Oct. 4.

Site of the proposed moorage is the northwestern arm of Tashum or Shoal Harbor on the Patricia Bay Highway near Swartz Bay.

INITIAL PERIOD

Two lots have been leased by the yacht club for an initial period of 10 years. One lot has an area of 1.8 acres, the other seven acres.

"This would be the first stage," said Commodore R. Hamilton Smith, "based on the premise that the entire development would support itself, amortize itself and eventually make a contribution to the club."

CLOSER TOGETHER

The first stage of the development would handle between 50 and 60 boats of various sizes. Eventually there would be room for upwards of 200 boats.

More than 100 members moor their boats in that area now," the commodore said, "scattered among several marinas. We hope to draw the club closer together."

PRICES TOO HIGH

In February, 1958, the club inspected "every available marina and suitable harbor on the Saanich Peninsula" with a view to purchase but "prices were considered excessive."

In October, 1960, a special "out-station committee" was appointed. The committee's report and recommendations will be presented at the Oct. 4 meeting.

IN NINE YEARS

A letter has gone out to more than 300 senior members, outlining the plans and urging them to attend the meeting.

According to the letter, the development can be self-supporting and amortize itself in nine years. "Those members using the facility would bear the cost while... they would benefit by virtue of their membership, since moorage rates would be lower than prevailing at commercial marinas."

"The growth in boating," said Commodore Smith, "has outgrown mooring facilities. We also look to this to handle the anticipated growth of the club."

"Cadboro Bay and the yacht club will still be the centre of sailing and social activities," the commodore concluded.

Four-Time Winner Takes Gift Show

Clothes Drive Set Nov. 10

The Junior Chamber of Commerce drive to collect used clothing for Goodwill Industries is scheduled for Nov. 10 this year.

It was also announced at Wednesday night's Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting four members of the Y's Men service club have volunteered to help Jaycees in their public speaking program to acquaint interested organizations with mental health problems.

It was decided to discuss the Jaycees' $12,753 budget at the next general meeting.

The provincial Jaycee board of directors will meet in Victoria Oct. 6 and 7.

Main winner at a recent Colwood Trail Riders charity show was Duncan Rimmer, who won four events and placed in another to take high-point total.

The show, held at the Luxton Fair Grounds, donated its proceeds to the Good Samaritan fund and the Junior Solarium League.

Winner of the junior aggregate total was Jody Shea. There were 42 entries in the show which saw competition for 13 different events.

TCA Crew Spots Sky Blast

OTTAWA (CP)—A large meteorite exploded over Newfoundland Wednesday and a part of it may have reached earth intact, the Geological Survey of Canada said yesterday.

The plunging meteorite was spotted over St. Andrews, 30 miles north of Fort aux Basques area, by the crew of a TCA plane flying to St. John's from Sydney, N.S.

Medicare Payment

'Bad' on Prairies All Right in B.C.

About three out of four members of the British Columbia Medical Association last year accepted pay from a government medicare plan which contains many of the terms found so objectionable by Saskatchewan physicians earlier this year.

Under the terms of B.C. legislation from which the plan stems the doctors:

- Have no ultimate control over treatment fees.
- Must send their bills to the legislative buildings for approval and payment by civil servants.
- May not prescribe the method of payment.
- Are subject to limits set by the cabinet on payment for treatment of any ailment.

The legislation was passed in 1955 and no voices were raised in protest.

The resultant B.C. Government Employees' Medical Services plan, from which 1,500 B.C. doctors accepted cheques last year, covers some 46,000 B.C. civil servants, their dependents and members of the legislature.

Toronto Halts Vaccine Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Metropolitan Toronto's program for administering Sabin oral polio vaccine has been scrapped for the rest of 1962. Toronto's medical health officer said Wednesday. Dr. A. R. Boyd said the program will likely be interrupted for at least a year.

Missing Body No Hindrance In Conviction

EDMONTON (CP) — The conviction of two Edmonton men on a charge of capital murder without the discovery of the victim's body did not set a Canadian court precedent.

Raymond Daniel Workman, 44, and William Huculak, 29, were sentenced Wednesday night to be hanged Jan. 9 for the April murder of golfer Frank Willey, 48. Willey's body has not been found despite a search.

WIFE DISAPPEARED

A year ago, Arthur James Kendall, 51, was convicted in an Ontario supreme court on a charge of capital murder in the disappearance of his wife nine years earlier.

Three of Kendall's five children testified during a four-day trial at Walkerton, Ont., before Mr. Justice A. B. Parker.

The children testified they saw Kendall drag the limp body of their mother from a cottage Aug. 2, 1952, wipe blood from the cabin floor and put a blood-stained butcher knife on a table.

SLATED TO HANG

Kendall's appeal was dismissed last March 26. He was scheduled to be hanged April 17, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment April 10.

Three men were executed at Prince Albert at the end of the First World War for the murder of a bailiff. The body was thrown into a river and never recovered.

Counterfeit Plot Halted

MONTREAL (CP) — Twelve persons were picked up and more than 8,000 counterfeit $5 bills were seized in a series of raids during the weekend, police reported Monday.

They said the fake bills apparently were to be dumped into the Montreal area during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend. Montreal has been deluged recently with counterfeit $10 and $20 bills.

New Party Joins Race In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Formation of a new political party in Quebec to contest the Nov. 14 provincial elections became known Thursday with an announcement by Mayor J. A. Mongrain of Trois-Rivières that he may be its leader.

The new party, likely to be called l'Action Libérale Nationale, would count on support from provincial Social Crediters as well as from other political groups.

In Ottawa Real Caouette, deputy national leader and Quebec leader of the Social Credit party, said the party will adhere to its decision not to participate in the Quebec election.

Nation's Production Pushed Near Big Budget Forecast

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's national output, buoyed by rising exports and government spending, expanded to an annual rate of $39,424,000,000 in the second quarter of this year, up 1.5 per cent from this year's first quarter.

Higher prices accounted for about one-third of the gain, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Wednesday in its report on the gross national product.

SLIGHTLY SLOWER

The economic expansion was slightly slower than the 2.4-per-cent gain registered in the first quarter of the year, when national output—adjusted to offset seasonal factors—hit an annual rate of $38,840,000,000.

The economy's growth rate made it appear likely that the government's April 10 budget forecast of a seven-per-cent rise in gross national product to around $39,625,000,000 for the full year would be achieved and perhaps exceeded.

POWER AVAILABLE

To hit that mark would require a national output in the last half of this year averaging some $39,700,000,000—only 1.5 per cent higher than the first-half average of $38,132,000,000. This compares with the 3.9-per-cent gain marked up in the first half over the closing six months of 1961.

The report indicated there is plenty of purchasing power available to provide an impetus to the economy, if consumers decide to loosen their purse strings.

DUE TO PRICES

During the second quarter consumer spending rose by only half of one per cent—almost all of the increase due to higher consumer prices.

But personal incomes advanced 3.4 per cent, due mainly to exceptionally large payments to Prairie farmers by the Canadian Wheat Board. Personal saving showed "an unusually sharp increase." Labor income rose by 1.6 per cent, slightly less than the first-quarter advance.

SIMILAR DECLINE

Corporation profits, before taxes and dividend payments abroad, climbed three per cent to offset a similar decline in the first quarter. This left profits at record levels, more than 30 per cent higher than the low point of the business cycle in the first three months of last year.

With consumer spending sluggish, the main expansionary influences came from a five-per-cent rise in exports and a four-per-cent gain in spending by all levels of government.

CONSTANT DOLLARS

Discounting higher prices, there was a gain of about one per cent in the volume of the nation's production. Expressed in constant—1957—dollars, output hit an annual rate of $38,600,000,000 in the second quarter compared with $38,182,000,000 in the first three months of the year.

Output in goods-producing industries rose 1.4 per cent, largely in durable goods, while service industries expanded output by half of one per cent.

GRAIN PAYMENTS

Consumer spending in the April-June quarter rose to an annual rate of $25,456,000,000 from $25,312,000,000 in the first quarter.

But personal income, due largely to the heavy Prairie grain payments, rose sharply to a rate of $30,418,000,000 from $29,408,000,000. Deducting direct taxes, personal disposable income rose four per cent to $27,752,000,000, and net savings by individuals jumped 56 per cent to an annual rate of $2,286,000,000.

TOTAL IMPORTS

One of the main sources of strength in the economy was the five-per-cent rise in exports, covering both goods and services, to an annual rate of $8,240,000,000. Total imports of goods and services rose by less than three per cent to a rate of $9,216,000,000.

These trends whittled the country's balance-of-payments deficit to an annual rate of $971,000,000 compared with $1,128,000,000 in the first quarter.

There was little impetus to the economy from either capital investment spending or an expansion in business inventories.

Labor income rose to an annual rate of $26,008,000,000 from $19,700,000,000 in the first quarter, with the 1.6-per-cent rise comparing with gains of 1.9 per cent in each of the previous quarters.

But the net income received by farmers, including the Canadian Wheat Board payments, jumped 65.5 per cent to an annual rate of $1,506,000,000 from $904,000,000 in the first quarter. This was the highest level since mid-1953.

Trains
Delay
Alouette

WASHINGTON (CP) — Another attempt to shoot the Canadian satellite Alouette into space has been postponed until early Saturday morning, a U.S. Space agency official said Thursday.

The satellite, planned to scan the top layer of the ionosphere, is sitting atop a two-stage Thor-Agena II rocket at the Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

The initial attempt to launch the satellite failed early Thursday because of a series of minor but time-consuming troubles.

The first was a malfunction, described as a pressurization leak, in ground equipment linked to the rocket's second stage. The passing trains, which upset the delicate instruments, delayed the blastoff still further.

Finally at 1:20 a.m., only two minutes and 19 seconds from the end of the countdown, the shot was called off because the space agency wasn't certain it could destroy the rocket if it went off course.

Arizona Desert

Flood May Spur
Mass Exodus

PHOENIX (UPI) — Residents of two central Arizona towns were warned last night to evacuate their communities as flood waters rushed through the deserts.

Sheriff's officers said Stanfield and Maricopa must be evacuated immediately.

"It's a hot one," a sheriff's officer said. "It really looks bad."

Eight school buses were drafted for evacuation duties. They were to stand by at the Stanfield school.

The desert floods were set off by rains nearly unprecedented in semi-arid central Arizona. The town of Sells, headquarters for the Papago Indian reservation, reported 3.5 inches of rain compared with a record 2.45 inches set in August of 1912.

Army helicopters from Fort Huachuca were dropping food and water to hundreds of Indians left stranded and homeless by the rampaging floods.

Death Toll
May Reach
600 in Spain

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Capt. Gen. Agustin Munoz Grandes, vice-president in the Franco government, told reporters Thursday after a tour of the triangular flood area north of Barcelona that he expects the final death toll from Tuesday's disaster to reach 600.

"They are still bringing in bodies from every part of the triangle," Munoz-Grandes said.

As he spoke, the latest official casualty list showed 388 dead, 445 missing and 280 in hospital with injuries.

'Sons' Set

Again?

PRINCETON (CP) — Sons of Freedom demonstrators, who camped here for 11 days, indicated late Thursday the original purpose of their trip from the Kootenays will stand — they will move into Aguanga.

Observers here felt such a movement was imminent, despite the fact the Princeton camp of about 1,000 was quiet.

Radio Claims:

Yemen King
Dies in Revolt

ADEN—Broadcasts from the feudal Arab kingdom of Yemen Thursday night reported the 35-year-old monarch enthroned last week was besieged in his palace and assassinated by a military faction, and a "free republic" was proclaimed.

The reports said the royal palace at San'a, the capital, was destroyed by artillery fire Wednesday night and the king's body was buried under its debris.

NONE DOUBTS

Some doubts were cast on these reports from other sources and the possibility was raised that a rebellious group had seized the radio at San'a without gaining much further immediate power. There appeared to be no doubt, however, that a coup had been carried out.

The rebels have so far not identified themselves but are believed to be led by Soviet-trained army officers.

NASER'S FRIENDS

The Associated Press said the coup apparently was engineered by friends of President Nasser's United Arab Republic. Shortly after its announcement, the U.A.R. minister of state,

Abdel Kader Hattin, declared "the U.A.R. opposes any foreign intervention in Yemen affairs."

The Radio San'a announcer warned that "anyone who tries to shoot any member of the armed forces will be shot immediately and his house and all in it destroyed."

Former Maj. Gen. E. A. Walker, who commanded federal troops in forcible Little Rock, Ark., integration in 1957, called for massive resistance if soldiers are sent to enforce federal court orders to integrate University of Mississippi.

Negro Student Held Back
To Save Peace

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—James Meredith, headed for his fourth attempt to enroll at the all-white University of Mississippi, backed off at the last minute Thursday under direct order of the U.S. attorney-general.

With Meredith already en route in an auto caravan with federal marshals, the order came from Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, who saw "major violence and bloodshed for the citizens of Mississippi" if the 26-year-old Negro went all the way.

In Washington, Kennedy conferred with an army general. The attorney-general said "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Apparently still not at the trumpeting stage, Kennedy ordered several hundred additional federal marshals to Memphis, Tenn.

GUARDS GATE

At the time Meredith was turning back in late afternoon, a small army of 500 peace officers grimly guarded the five gates to the Ole Miss campus. They blocked four of the gates with parked cars, figuring to force Meredith and the marshals to make their try at the main gate if they showed up.

READY TO MOVE

Governor Ross Barnett, on the campus all day and apparently ready to step in personally to block Meredith again if the opportunity presented itself, spent about 20 minutes at the gate.

Both the adamant 64-year-old governor, who has promised to go to jail rather than see a Negro enter Ole Miss, and Johnson, face federal contempt citations for blocking Meredith in defiance of court orders.

MAN AGREED

One objective of federal officials is to get Meredith into the presence of the University of Mississippi registrar, Robert Ellis Ellis, under threat of contempt, has agreed to register him, if he appears.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)— Governor John Patterson of Alabama, referring to federal government efforts to have a Negro admitted to the all-white University of Mississippi, asked President Kennedy Thursday.

"If federal troops are sent into Mississippi, I ask if you are prepared to invade Alabama as well?"

In a telegram sent to Kennedy, Patterson said Alabama and Mississippi stand united "in this fight and will continue to resist all unlawful encroachments by the federal government."

Belligerent Bobbers
Bear Hoary Beef

HULL, England (Reuters)—Dockworkers here Thursday refused to unload a catch of fish from a West German trawler because of a grudge which began in the First World War.

And Thursday night the trawler, the 1,244-ton Heinrich Kern, was heading for home with 35,000 tons of cod, caught off Greenland.

The grudge began when local ships were sunk and shot up by German submarines and planes in the 1914-18 war.

FRANK'S TRY "bobbers" — the men who unload fish — have refused to touch German trawlers ever since.

The Heinrich Kern went first in Grimby. She was too big to get into Grimby fish dock with her huge catch and was offloaded to Hull.

The bobbers turned her down.

By MIKE GADSBY

A friendly crowd named Sammy has been turning a Victoria neighborhood upside down for the past three weeks.

The full-grown bird dropped into a Daisy Avenue neighborhood about three weeks ago, and children in the area were so delighted with his fearless friendliness they christened him Sammy.

Now Sammy swoops and plays with the children and appears to have no fear of humans. He perches at their feet while they're riding their bicycles and hangs around, keeping them company while they play.

But Sammy's popularity is strictly confined to the kids—the parents have a different point of view.

Fathers in the area don't like the way he hides around in the grass which snag their lawn mowers. Mothers don't like the way he walks into a house uninvited and rearranges the decorations—and adds a few of his own.

When Mrs. Harvey Fung went to a neighbor's for coffee the other day she made the mistake of leaving her door open. In flew Sammy, and when Mrs. Fung returned all her pictures and knick-knacks were strewn over the living room floor.

When Mrs. John Gale, of 749 Daisy, got into her car last week, there was Sammy sitting on the hood. "I just ignored him," she said. "I figured he'd fly away when I started the car. After I had gone half a block he was still sitting there, looking in the window at me. I finally had to stop the car and get out and chase him away."

Mrs. Gale has had more trouble with Sammy. "One day I put the baby in his

The $400,000,000 Columbia River development scheme will go ahead before the end of this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of the federal throne speech which disclosed that final victory in the great Columbia controversy of the past five years goes to British Columbia.

The premier was restrained in his acceptance of word he had won what many believe was the toughest battle of his stormy political career.

"This isn't a question of winning arguments," he told reporters, "there is no time for partisan politics in Canada today."

OTTAWA (CP) — The government put an "economic growth" label on its legislative program unveiled Thursday at the opening of the new Parliament.

One major step forecast: Creation of a national economic development board that would keep its finger on the country's economic pulse and suggest new policies for expansion.

NEW FLAG?

But the government's legislative plans, outlined in the speech from the throne read by Governor-General Vanier, contained little else of major policy decisions apart from a move that might lead to adoption of a new Canadian flag and national anthem.

The throne speech set as a goal the creation of more than 1,000,000 new jobs in Canada in the next five years, and promised "further solutions to long-term problems" in the economy. But it made clear that Parliament will have to wait for a new budget speech to learn what these solutions are.

United Stays In, Milligan Stays Out; Two Clubs May Quit Soccer League

By JIM TANG

Victoria United has decided to remain in the Pacific Coast Soccer League but will play its scheduled game in Vancouver Sunday without the services of manager Wally Milligan, and almost certainly will be competing in

Glen Lake Roughriders Start Play

Culmination of two years of organization will be the first team football game at Luskton Park, Glen Lake, Sunday afternoon at 2.

Victoria Trojans play the Glen Lake Roughriders, a club that is composed of boys from Colwood, Metchem and Luskton. Merchants in the area have been generous in donating towards the cost of outfitting the team.

Mel Howley is the head coach of Roughriders.

Milligan handed in his resignation last night after a meeting attended by Bill Findler and Charlie Kelly, president and secretary of the PCSL, respectively. United president Ed Viggers, club secretary Bill O'Connell and Andy Paul, president of the Victoria and District League, which sponsors the Victoria entry in the PCSL.

But while the PCSL retained Victoria, it almost certainly lost St. Andrews and New Westminster Royals, two of the storied clubs in Canadian soccer.

Executives of both mainland clubs also met last night and while neither would make a definite statement, the indications were that both plan to resign from the PCSL.

CLUB SHOCKED

Milligan's affirmation of his announced intent to resign if the Victoria club remained in the league came as a shock to club and league officials, who had felt he could be persuaded to change his mind.

"I don't want to be responsible for players who can be suspended for as little reason as they were suspended," Milligan said after last night's meeting.

TWO YOUNGSTERS

"I signed two youngsters (Russ Hall, 17, and Ash Walda, 18) and they get suspended after playing only half a game because our league didn't want to admit a club which I feel has no right in the league."

"I have nothing against Vancouver Pileaters. My argument is with the manner they were

"I am sorry that Wally did what he did," Findler said. "He has done a lot for your club and I hope he will reconsider. We have to go ahead and play and, despite all this, we are going ahead."

Viggers, who will carry on as temporary manager of United with the help of coach Len Scott, also praised Milligan.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I think Wally was a bit hasty and I hope he will change his mind. He will be hard to replace and I think the fans will demand that he come back to his club."

But the fat was almost certainly in the fire in Vancouver as strong words from officials of the St. Andrews and New Westminster clubs indicated that strong action was forthcoming.

JOINT STATEMENT

Frank Craig, president of the Royals, said that no official announcement would be made until Saturday, when, he said, the Royals and St. Andrews would make a joint announcement of their decisions.

"I can't tell you what we plan to do at this moment but I will say I certainly won't go along with the decision of the commission," he said.

"It's not very good at all. We all decided to have a proper schedule in a nine-team league and I'm tired of getting kicked around. I've been with this club 14 years and then this happens."

"I don't think Pils have any right in the league. I saw the first game of that promotion-relegation series (won, 3-0, by St. Andrews) and it was a disgrace to soccer. I figured that would be the end of it."

Tom McNeill, St. Andrews' league delegate, stated that his club would make its decision known Tuesday but said that "it was very possible" that the Scots and Royals would make a joint announcement Saturday.

And McNeill was a mad Scotsman.

"This commission is absolutely nothing," he ruled out indignantly. "They're just dictators. The Coast League has no connection with the Mainland League and the Mainland League has no connection with the Coast League. This whole thing is ridiculous."

If St. Andrews and New Westminster withdrew, the PCSL will be left with seven clubs—Victoria, Seattle and Canadians, Firefighters, North Shore and Columbus from Vancouver. And, of course, the Pileaters.

forced on us. I have been in soccer for 30 years and here since 1948 and have done nothing but work for the game. Then I get suspended for no good reason."

FINDLER SORRY

Findler, convinced that the PCSL had no recourse but to bow to the ultimatum handed out by the B.C. Soccer Commission to admit Pils or face suspension, voiced his regrets at Milligan's decision.

New York May Ban Pro Boxing

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York legislative committee will recommend that professional boxing be outlawed in the state, the New York Post said Thursday.

The newspaper said the prediction came from one of the state's top legislators who polled members of a joint legislative committee which is investigating the sport. The legislator, unnamed, was quoted as saying the committee's majority thinks professional boxing is beyond saving.

The committee was organized after the death of Benny (Kid) Parson last March as the result of ring injuries.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers is Canada's most successful football coach. He is cool, almost cold, speaks sparingly but with an astuteness which his record backs up. In Vancouver Monday he spoke about the B.C. Lions, and what he said made more sense than anything that has been said about that tormented football club for some time, perhaps ever.

Grant arrived not long after the Lions had been beaten in Regina by Saskatchewan Roughriders, a defeat which had the ever-hoping Lions fans in still another turmoil. Quarterback Joe Kapp was under heavy fire, there was again allying at manager Herb Capoen and even coach Dave Skrien was under aggressive suspicion. In other words, things were back to normal as regards Canada's most-unsuccesful football club.

Into this stormy atmosphere Grant stepped, on request, with his ever calm and logical approach.

"Wait it out," he said, and in those three words summed up what has always been wrong with the Lions. They have never been content to wait it out.

And Grant explained his reason for his advice.

"These B.C. Lions," he told a Vancouver sports editor, "have to be the best last place club in the history of the league. They move the ball better than anyone else and they lead us in every offensive department except scoring. They've got to stay the way they are."

A look at the Lions' lineup shows that Grant is right. The Lions have got the material at last. It's just a question now of waiting for it to gain the necessary experience.

It takes time to build a winner in football, and a look at the B.C. playing roster and events of the past show that the Lions haven't been willing to wait. They just keep on making changes and spending money instead of waiting for the team to jell.

The Lions' roster shows that imports Mike Martin, Mack Burton, Mel Mellin and Tom Larchek are rookies. Import-linemen Dick Fouts and Willie Taylor are playing their first season with the club. Emory Barnes plays his first game tomorrow night and Canadian-tackle Tom Walker is a rookie and centre Ian Hageman is actually playing his first season.

Imports Kapp, Tom Brown and Bob Schloredt and Canadians Pat Clardige, Barney Therrien, Walt Mikki and Bob Reisk are playing their second seasons with the club. Imports Leonie Dennis and Canadians Jim Carphin, Steve Cotter and Neil Beaumont are in their third seasons.

That adds up to 20 players who have joined the club since the start of the 1959 season and 16 who are either second or first-year players. It is little wonder that the Lions have been making mistakes that lose football games, but to those who scratch under the surface, there is plenty of evidence that the material is good. And perhaps better than that.

The Lions have played just like an inexperienced but promising club could be expected to play. In only one of their 10 games, against Hamilton, has the club looked bad for a whole game. They could have won the nine others except for their lapses, but they played enough good football in each to show that the potential is there, and will show in time.

Grant has only to look at his club for proof of what he says. Roger Savoy has been with the Bombers 12 seasons, Steve Patrick for 11, Gerry James for 10, Cec Luffing, Nick Miller and Gordie Rowland for nine, George Druzman and Ron Latorelle for eight, Herb Gray, Norm Rausman and Les Lewis for seven, Cornell Piper, Ernie Pitta, Kenny Plon and Charlie Shepard for six, Frank Rigney, Dave Burkholder and Gar Warren for five.

And Edmonton Eskimos got to the top by building over a period of time. Ted Tully is a 12-year man, Jackie Parker, Don Getty and Oscar Kruger have been around nine seasons, Johnny Bright, Roger Nelson, Mike Volcan, Roy Stevenson and Gino Frasca for eight, Mike Knech for seven, Ed Gray and Nick Laskub for six and Jim Leavitt, Don Stephenson and Bill Smith for five.

The Eskimos are now rebuilding and the Bombers, while still the best are no longer quite as superior but Grant can show his club at or near the top by making no more than five or three changes each season.

There is nothing wrong with the Lions today that aging won't cure. They may not make it this season, unless Kapp's performance against the Bombers Monday can be continued, but they'll do it if they wait it out. Grant's advice could be the best thing that ever happened to them.

OTTAWA (CP)—Sgt. Bert Walker of Victoria, serving with the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East, has emerged as the best individual rifle marksman in the force.

He scored 74 points of a possible 75 in a shoot-off match with an Indian soldier after they had tied in the competition.

Big Game For Vamps

Victoria Vampires play their biggest game of the Vancouver Island Junior League season on Sunday.

Redmen, unbeaten after three games and 19-12 victors over Vampires when the clubs first met, play Vamps at Carnarvon Park at 2 p.m.

Vampires' record is 2-1. A victory for them would put both clubs at 3-1 with the Victoria team boasting a superior points-for and against record.

Both teams have two games left after Sunday. Oak Bay plays at Campbell River in Sunday's other game.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—New York Rangers, paced by Andy Bathgate, scored five goals in the third period Thursday night to down San Francisco Seals 6-3 in an exhibition hockey game here.

MONTREAL (CP) — Oil stocks were buoyant on the strength of late-afternoon reports that the market fell sharply. Canadian Oil followed Wednesday's seven-point jump with a gain of 1/2 to 58. Power Corporation, holder of a large minority interest in Canadian Oil, rose two points to 68. In other oil issues, Canadian Heavy rose 1/4 to 74 in heavy trading and Central - Del Rio added 13 cents to 91. Among losers, Aluminum fell 1/4 to 20 1/2. Algoma fell a point to 39 1/2. Price at 3 1/2 and Dominion Bridge at 15 each last.

Consolidated Paper rose 1/4 to 37 1/2 among papers and Atlas Steel rose a point to 35 1/2 in heavy trading.

In index, S&P 500 rose 1/2 to 100.4, Dow Jones added 1/2 to 154.

United Keno Rises
TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Oil again dominated industrial trading. On a volume topping 77,000 shares, the stock touched a record 55 1/2 before easing to 53 1/2.

Meanwhile, the market was generally weaker, with banks setting the prevailing tone. All five listed issues declined, with the sharpest hit being Nova Scotia, down one point.

Losses of a point or more went to Algoma Steel, Aluminum and Dominion Foundries and Steel.

Blue metals which dropped early in the day to their lowest level this year, revived slightly and closed fractionally lower. Labrador declined 1/4 to 19 1/2. International Nickel slipped 1/4 to 19 1/2. Hill reflected the rising price of silver, gaining 1/4 to 10 1/2.

Among western oils, Calgary and Edmonton declined 1/4, while Great Plains Development rose 1/4 and Hudson's Bay 1/2.

Aluminum Weakens
NEW YORK (AP) — A feeble stock market rally failed to take hold and the list sank again under a wave of late selling. It was the fourth sharp decline on the last five sessions but the smallest.

Brokers said Wall Street was not affected much by the news background.

Brokers noted that the current series of sharp, stabbing declines, punctuated by feeble rallies, is uncomfortably reminiscent of the market's performance in May just prior to the Black Monday plunge of May 28.

The spot news about business, however, remained mixed. It included a rise in steel sales and scheduled auto output, a drop in rail carloadings and a cut in prices for aluminum sheet by Alcoa.

Alcoa and Aluminum Ltd. lost 1 1/4 each while Reynolds Metals was heavily traded and dropped 1/4.

The auto gave up a little ground, Ford and Studebaker dropped 1/4 apiece. General Motors and Chrysler 1/4 each, while American Motors closed unchanged.

MacMillan Rallies
VANCOUVER — MacMillan rallied a quarter to 51 1/2, but Aluminum and Trans-Canada weakened.

Mines were mixed to lower with Craigmont down at 14 1/2, Granducue was 3.00 and Comstock Pacific rallied to 314 among others and there was some interest in Venture at 17.

Montreal Bonds
MONTREAL — Bond prices were generally firmer on new buying from the U.S. Several recent issues were in demand with bids rising up to 1/4. The new government 5 1/2 of 1969 were slumped at par bid.

London Stock Prices
LONDON (AP) — The London stock market was mixed today, with the FTSE 100 index ending at 314.10, up from 313.80 yesterday.

The market was supported by a rise in the price of oil, which helped to lift the shares of oil companies.

However, the shares of banks and other financial institutions were weaker, with the Bank of England's share down 1/4.

New York Markets
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York stock market was mixed today, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average ending at 154.10, up from 153.80 yesterday.

The market was supported by a rise in the price of oil, which helped to lift the shares of oil companies.

However, the shares of banks and other financial institutions were weaker, with the Bank of America's share down 1/4.

U.S. Extends Dollar Aid

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States have agreed to extend a $200,000,000 currency swap part of American financial aid to bolster the Canadian dollar exchange rate, a treasury official said Thursday.

The agreement was for a three-month period of the height of Canada's dollar crisis but the swap is being extended for another three months, the official said.

Under the arrangement, the U.S. federal reserve provided Canada with $200,000,000 in U.S. currency in exchange for a similar amount of Canadian currency.

Senator McCutcheon

New Hand at Work

By HARRY YOUNG
Columnist Business Editor

Although details of the government's plans to stimulate the economy and improve the international payments balance are lacking in the Throne speech, business associate of Wallace McCutcheon, one of the hand of the new senator at work on the new proposals.

There is little doubt that in the past the McCutcheon government has been long on lawyers and other professional types and short on experienced business people.

Mr. McCutcheon's selection as a new member of the cabinet following the dollar crisis in June was taken as an admission that the government knew it ought to have somebody aboard accustomed to making big decisions for big corporations and who knew the fundamentals that make the nation tick.

There are many who believe that Senator McCutcheon has been influential in easing the flow of money and in reducing the bank of Canada rediscunt rate from 6 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent.

These moves were absolutely necessary if the government hoped that private enterprise would take up the slack on the job picture created when the government trimmed its own expenditures, particularly in the field of public works.

It was something of a surprise, therefore, that McCutcheon, as former head of several leading Canadian corporations would understand instinctively.

Within the next few weeks it is expected Finance Minister Nowlan will produce his first budget—a supplementary one—that will include new stimulus for industry and commerce and perhaps a removal of the 15 per cent non-resident withholding tax that has been so unpopular with U.S. and British investors in this country.

Trains Delay Alouette

WASHINGTON (CP) — Another attempt to shoot the Alouette satellite into space has been postponed until early Saturday morning, a U.S. Space Agency official said Thursday.

The satellite, planned to scan the top layer of the ionosphere, is sitting atop a two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket at the Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

The initial attempt to launch the satellite failed early Thursday because of a series of minor but time-consuming troubles.

The first was a malfunction, described as a pressurization leak, in ground equipment linked to the rocket's second stage. The passing trains, which upset the delicate instruments, delayed the blastoff still further.

Finally at 1:20 a.m., only two minutes and 19 seconds from the end of the countdown, the shot was called off because the space agency wasn't certain it could destroy the rocket if it went off course.

Arizona Desert

Flood May Spur Mass Exodus

PHOENIX (UPI) — Residents of two central Arizona towns were warned last night to evacuate their communities as flood waters rushed through the deserts. Sheriff's officers said Stanfield and Maricopa must be evacuated immediately.

"It's a hot one," a sheriff's officer said. "It really looks bad."

Eight school buses were drafted for evacuation duties. They were to stand by at the Stanfield school.

The desert floods were set off by rains nearly unprecedented in semi-arid central Arizona. The town of Sells, headquarters for the Papago Indian reservation, reported 3.5 inches of rain—compared with a record 2.45 inches set in August of 1912.

Army helicopters from Fort Huachuca were dropping food and water to hundreds of Indians left stranded and homeless by the rampaging floods.

On Flight Home

City Pilot Missing

A 28-year-old Victoria pilot has been reported missing on a flight between Castlegar and Victoria.

The missing pilot is Ernest Johnston, of Cresswell Road, near Sidney.

He was last heard from when he reported his position over Princeton and radiocast for weather information. The Cessna 172 he was flying carried enough fuel for 4½ hours.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnston told the Colonist last night her husband is "a very determined man." "My husband is an Irishman. He'll walk out of anything he gets into," she said. "I have no doubt that I'll see him again in three or four days."

The Johnston's have been married for two years and have a six-month-old daughter, Sylvia.

Mrs. Johnston said her Edmonton-born husband had been in the Royal Canadian Air Force for eight years.

He left the air force two years ago to go into private flying. In his present job he is employed as a charter pilot and instructor by Victoria Flying Services at Patricia Bay Airport.

Air-Sea Rescue officials said yesterday poor weather curtailed an air search for the light plane.

"We are operating on the theory that Mr. Johnston may have planned to fly south to Spokane and then west," an official said. "When the weather clears our aerial search will include that area and the area northeast of Princeton."

Growth Major Target

By TERRY HAMMOND

The $100,000,000 Columbia River development scheme will go ahead before the end of this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of the federal throne speech which disclosed that the toughest battle of his political career.

"This isn't a question of winning arguments," he told reporters, "there is no time for partisan politics in Canada today."

But toward the end of an hour-long press conference he could hardly conceal his elation and his optimism any longer.

"Twenty-five years after the development of the Peace and the Columbia British Columbia industrially will be greater."

OTTAWA (CP) — The government put an "economic growth" label on its legislative program unveiled Thursday at the opening of the new Parliament.

One major step forecast: Creation of a national economic development board that would keep its finger on the country's economic pulse and suggest new policies for expansion.

But the government's legislative plans, outlined in the speech from the throne read by Governor-General Vanier, contained little else of major policy decisions apart from a move that might lead to adoption of a new Canadian flag and national anthem.

The throne speech set as a goal the creation of more than 1,000,000 new jobs in Canada in the next five years, and promised "further solutions to long-term problems" in the economy. But it made clear that Parliament will have to wait for a new budget speech to learn what those solutions are.

Washington Order

Negro Student Held Back To Save Peace

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—James Meredith, headed for his fourth attempt to enroll at the all-white University of Mississippi, backed off at the last minute Thursday under threat of the U.S. attorney-general.

With Meredith already en route in an anti-semitic caravan with federal marshals, the order came from Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who saw "major violence and bloodshed for the citizens of Mississippi" if the 28-year-old Negro went all the way.

Waiting firmly at the north Mississippi college town were a helmeted and club-carrying army of Mississippi police officers—showing not the slightest evidence of backing down, force or not.

Once again the adamant stand of Mississippi against integration put off the final showdown of strength between state and federal governments and perhaps brought nearer the use of federal troops.

In Washington, Kennedy conferred with an army general. The attorney-general said "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Apparently still not at the cross-roads stage, Kennedy ordered several hundred additional federal marshals to Memphis, Tenn.

At the time Meredith was turning back in late afternoon, a small army of 100 police officers grimly guarded the five gates to the Ole Miss campus.

They blocked four of the gates with parked cars, flanking to force Meredith and the marshals to make their try at the main gate if they showed up.

READY TO MOVE
Governor Ross Barnett, on the campus all day and apparently ready to step in personally to block Meredith again if the opportunity presented itself, spent about 20 minutes at the gate.

The adamant 64-year-old governor, who has promised to go to jail rather than see a Negro enter Ole Miss, faces federal contempt citations for blocking Meredith in defiance of court orders.

WAS AGREED
One objective of federal officials is to get Meredith into the presence of the University of Mississippi registrar, Robert Ellis Ellis, under threat of contempt, has agreed to register him, if he appears.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Governor John Patterson of Alabama, referring to federal government efforts to have a Negro admitted to the all-white University of Mississippi, asked President Kennedy Thursday.

"If federal troops are sent into Mississippi, I ask if you are prepared to invade Alabama as well?"

In a telegram sent to Kennedy, Patterson said Alabama and Mississippi stand united "in this fight and will continue to resist all unlawful encroachments by the federal government."

Belligerent Bobbers Carry Old Grudge

HULL, England (Reuters)—Fishworkers here Thursday refused to unload a catch of fish from a West German trawler because of a grudge which began in the First World War.

And Thursday night the trawler, the 1,244-ton Heinrich Kern, was heading for home with 25,000 pounds of cod, caught off Greenland.

The grudge began when local ships were sunk and shot up by German submarines and planes in the 1914-18 war.

Hull's fish "bobbies"—the men who unload fish—have refused to touch German trawlers ever since.

The Heinrich Kern went first to Germany. She was too big to get into German fish docks with her huge catch and was offered to Hull.

Sammy Puts Them on the Run

By MIKE GADSBY
A friendly grow named Sammy has been turning a Victoria neighborhood upside down for the past three weeks.

The full-grown bird dropped into a Daisy Avenue neighborhood about three weeks ago, and children in the area were as delighted with his fearless friendliness as they were terrified by his size.

Now Sammy sweeps and plays with the children and appears to have no fear of humans. He pretends at their feet while they are riding their bicycles and hops around, keeping them company while they play.

But Sammy's popularity is strictly confined to the children—parents have a different point of view.

Fathers in the area don't like the way he hides stones

in the grass which snag their lawnmowers. Mothers don't like the way he walks into a house uninvited and rearranges the decorations—and adds a few of his own.

When Mrs. Harvey Fung went to a neighbor's for coffee the other day she made the mistake of leaving her door open. In five minutes, and when Mrs. Fung returned all her pictures and knickknacks were strewn over the living room floor.

When Mrs. John Gale, of 740 Daisy, got into her car last week, there was Sammy sitting on the hood. "I just ignored him," she said. "I figured he'd fly away when I started the car. After I had gone half a block he was still sitting there, looking in the window at me. I finally had to stop the car and get out and chase him away."

Mrs. Gale has had more trouble with Sammy. "One day I put the baby in her carriage with a teething dummy in her mouth. The next thing I saw was that crow with the dummy in its beak."

"The other day when I was changing the baby," went on Mrs. Gale, "Sammy flew right into the house and stole the baby's shirt. I had to chase him to get it back."

"I'm sure he's someone's pet," she said "and I wish they'd come and claim him. That bird has got to go."

On Flight Home

City Pilot Missing

Trains Delay Alouette

WASHINGTON (CP) — Another attempt to shoot the Canadian satellite Alouette into space has been postponed until early Saturday morning, a U.S. Space Agency official said Thursday.

The satellite, planned to scan the top layer of the atmosphere, is sitting atop a two-stage Thor-Agena B rocket at the Vandenberg Air Force Base, California.

The initial attempt to launch the satellite failed early Thursday because of a series of minor but time-consuming troubles.

The first was a malfunction, described as a pressurization leak in ground equipment, linked to the rocket's second stage. The passing train, which upset the delicate instruments, delayed the blastoff still further.

Finally at 1:20 a.m., only two minutes and 19 seconds from the end of the countdown, the shot was called off because the space agency wasn't certain it could destroy the rocket if it went off course.

The missing pilot is Ernest Johnston, of Crowswell Road, near Sidney.

He was last heard from when he reported his position over Princeton and radiated for weather information. The Cessna 172 he was flying carried enough fuel for 4½ hours.

Mrs. Sylvia Johnston told the Colonist last night her husband is "a very determined man." "My husband is an Irishman. He'll walk out of anything he gets into," she said. "I have no doubt that I'll see him again in three or four days."

The Johnston's have been married for two years and have a six-month-old daughter, Sylvia.

Mrs. Johnston said her Edmonton-born husband had been in the Royal Canadian Air Force for eight years.

He left the air force two years ago to go into private flying. In his present job he is employed as a charter pilot and instructor by Victoria Flying Services at Patricia Bay Airport.

Air-Sea Rescue officials said yesterday poor weather curtailed an air search for the light plane.

"We are operating on the theory that Mr. Johnston may have planned to fly south to Spokane and then west," an official said. "When the weather clears our aerial search will include that area and the area northeast of Princeton."

BENNETT PREDICTS COLUMBIA THIS YEAR

Throne Speech Points

Government to encourage export to prevent potential surplus power.

Establishment of a national economic development board to report state of economy and recommend projects.

Domestic provincial conference on choice of national flag "and other national symbols."

Expansion of export trade promotion program.

Enlargement of Industrial Development Bank.

Government objective of "balanced budget."

Initiation of program to provide feed grain storage facilities in Eastern Canada and British Columbia.

More funds for farm credit corporation.

Convening this fall of a national conference on agricultural training.

Changes in freight rate legislation designed to remove need for across-the-board rate increases.

Growth Major Target

OTTAWA (CP) — The government put an "economic growth" label on its legislative program unveiled Thursday at the opening of the new Parliament.

One major step forecast: Creation of a national economic development board that would keep its finger on the country's economic pulse and suggest new policies for expansion.

But the government's legislative plans, outlined in the speech from the throne read by Governor-General Vanier, contained little else of major policy decisions apart from a move that might lead to adoption of a new Canadian flag and national anthem.

The throne speech set as a goal the creation of more than 1,000,000 new jobs in Canada in the next five years, and promised "further solutions to long-term problems" in the economy. But it made clear that Parliament will have to wait for a new budget speech to learn what those solutions are.

Washington Order

Negro Student Held Back To Save Peace

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—James Meredith, headed for his fourth attempt to enroll at the all-white University of Mississippi, backed off at the last minute Thursday under direct order of the U.S. attorney-general.

With Meredith already en route in an auto caravan with federal marshals, the order came from Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who saw "major violence and bloodshed" for the siting of Meredith "if the 28-year-old Negro went all the way."

Walling firmly at this north Mississippi college town were a helmeted and club-carrying army of Mississippi peace officers—showing not the slightest evidence of backing down, force or not.

Former Maj. Gen. E. A. Walker, who commanded federal troops in forcible Little Rock, Ark., integration in 1957, called for massive resistance if soldiers are sent to enforce federal court orders to integrate University of Mississippi.

Once again the adamant stand of Mississippi against integration put off the final showdown of strength between state and federal governments and perhaps brought nearer the use of federal troops.

In Washington, Kennedy conferred with an army general. The attorney-general said "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Apparently still not at the troop-using stage, Kennedy ordered several hundred additional federal marshals to Memphis, Tenn.

At the time Meredith was turning back in late afternoon, a small army of 500 peace officers grudgingly guarded the five gates to the Ole Miss campus.

They blocked four of the gates with parked cars, figuring to force Meredith and the marshals to make their try at the main gate if they showed up.

READY TO MOVE
Governor Ross Barnett, on the campus all day and apparently ready to step in personally to block Meredith again if the opportunity presented itself, spent about 20 minutes at the gate.

The adamant 64-year-old governor, who has promised to go to jail rather than see a Negro enter Ole Miss, faces federal contempt citations for blocking Meredith in defiance of court orders.

ONE AGREED
One objective of federal officials is to get Meredith into the presence of the University of Mississippi registrar, Robert Ellis Ellis, under threat of contempt, has agreed to register him, if he appears.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Governor John Patterson of Alabama, referring to federal government efforts to have a Negro admitted to the all-white University of Mississippi, asked President Kennedy Thursday.

"If federal troops are sent into Mississippi, I ask if you are prepared to invade Alabama as well?"

The $400,000,000 Columbia River development scheme will go ahead before the end of this year, Premier Bennett said yesterday.

His statement came on the heels of the federal throne speech which disclosed that final victory in the great Columbia controversy of the past five years goes to British Columbia.

TOUGHEN BATTLE

The premier was restrained in his acceptance of word he had won what many believe was the toughest battle of his stormy political career.

"This isn't a question of winning arguments," he told reporters, "there is no time for partisan politics in Canada today."

SIGN OF ELATION

But toward the end of an hour-long press conference he could hardly conceal his elation and his optimism any longer.

"Twenty-five years after the development of the Peace and the Columbia British Columbia industrially will be greater."

Socred Amendment May Trip Tories

OTTAWA (CP)—All three opposition party leaders Thursday heavily criticized government policy as outlined in the speech from the throne opening Parliament.

But whether this criticism would be translated into defeat of the minority Progressive Conservative government remained to be seen.

Opposition Leader Pearson reiterated that he will bring in a non-confidence motion Monday.

Robert Thompson, Social Credit leader, said he will propose a "strong" amendment—effect, a non-confidence motion—early next week. If the Liberals and NDP supported it, the government would be turned out.

"If this is all the Progressive Conservatives have got to offer, the House certainly is not going to go too long," Mr. Thompson said.

NDP leader T. C. Douglas said his party would not take a stand on the Liberal non-confidence motion "until we hear further about the proposed policies of the government." Presumably this would mean the NDP wanted to wait to hear Prime Minister Diefenbaker Monday or Tuesday.

VOTED THURSDAY
If Social Credit or the NDP introduced a non-confidence motion, it would be voted on Tuesday. Mr. Pearson's motion would be voted on Thursday.

Mr. Pearson described the throne speech as a "rebuff of last April's budget and the Conservative election platform."

"ECONOMIC MORASS"
Mr. Thompson said the throne speech "displays a persistence in the economic delusion that led the country into economic morass in which we have been mired for the last five years."

Arizona Desert

Flood May Spur Mass Exodus

PHOENIX (UPI) — Residents of two central Arizona towns were warned last night to evacuate their communities as flood waters rushed through the deserts. Sheriff's officers said Stanfield and Maricopa must be evacuated immediately.

"It's a hot one," a sheriff's officer said. "It really looks bad."

Night school buses were drafted for evacuation duties. They were to stand by at the Stanfield school.

The desert floods were set off by rains nearly unprecedented in semi-arid central Arizona. The town of Nells, headquarters for the Papago Indian reservation, reported 33 inches of rain compared with a record 24.5 inches set in August of 1912.

Army helicopters from Fort Huachuca were dropping food and water to hundreds of Indians left stranded and homeless by the rampaging floods.

Death Toll May Reach 600 in Spain

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—Capt. Gen. Agustín Muñoz Grandes, vice-president in the Franco government, told reporters Thursday after a tour of the triangular flood area north of Barcelona that he expects the final death toll from Tuesday's disaster to reach 600.

He also said thousands of bodies were still floating in the sea. "Many families are still looking for their missing relatives," he said.

As he spoke, the latest official casualty toll showed 288 dead, 450 missing and 280 in hospital with injuries.

Observing here felt such a movement was imminent, despite the fact the Franco regime camp of about 1,000 was quiet.
